ENDEAVOUR VICTOR IN SECOND YACHT RACE

Food Shortage In Nome After Fire Razes Famed Town

Two Eskimos Killed and $2,000,000 Property Damage Done By Blaze Which Virtually Wiped Out Alaska Coast City; Aid Being Rushed Before Arctic Ice Closes in

SPARK ON ROOF OF HOTEL CAUSE

Associated Press

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 18.—Alaska's famous city of gold lay in smoking ruins to-day with two dead and a property loss estimated as high as $2,000,000.

Faced by a definite food shortage and an early winter which will lock the city's roadstead with ice, Nome's homeless citizen's pleaded for immediate aid.

"We must have help from outside, speedily," said Dr. Rex M. Swartz, the city's physician-mayor.

The United States government, Red Cross and American companies promptly promised to rush aid in an effort to beat the winter's ice into the harbor.

Starting from a spark on the roof of the Golden Gate Hotel yesterday, flames roared through the wooden town, leaping from building to building, and then from block to block. Efforts of firemen, aided by men, women and children, were futile.

The federal buildings, the Miners' and Merchants' Bank, the Emery grocery store and restaurant, and all of the hotels but one fell before the flames.

MISS KIRKHAM IS DEFEATED

Montreal Star Eliminated From Canadian Women's Golf; Mrs. Vera Ford Wins

Toronto Golf and Country Club, Sept. 18.—Ten Canadians, five of the starting group of six British stars and a single challenger from the United States propelled their way over stubborn opposition here to-day to advance into the second round of the Canadian women's open golf championship.

Probably the most startling upset of the first-round play was the downfall of the sterling tournament ace, Miss Margery Kirkham, Montreal, who was eliminated by Mrs. H. B. Harbaugh, Willoughby, Ohio, by a margin of 3 and 1. Miss Kirkham, who started out as one of the top-heavy favorites, was not as consistent as usual off the tees and faltered just often enough to give her opponent the required openings. Mrs. Harbaugh took a lead of two

This Ticklish Job Cause of Accident and Delay

Before the start of yesterday's race T. O. M. Sopwith, skipper of the British challenge Endeavour, had to ask for a postponement because the yachtsman whose job it is to climb this lofty mast to help break out the forestaysail was knocked unconscious. The sea was heavy and the Endeavour was rolling considerably. The yachtsman was hurled against the mast and a boatswain's chair had to be rigged to bring him down. The above picture shows the man going up the tallest mast ever stepped into a sailing vessel of any kind. The picture also shows in a striking manner the challenger's rigging, maze of bracing stays, shrouds, spreaders and halyards which complicate modern yacht racing. The mast towers 168 feet above the deck, three feet higher than that of the Rainbow.

Challenger Leads Rainbow All Way Around To-day's Course And Sets Record

Endeavour Proves Faster Sloop Than Defender in Moderate Weather, and Now, With Two Races to Her Credit, Is Favorite to Regain Famous Trophy for Britain; Winner Covers Thirty-mile Triangular Course in 3 Hours 9 Minutes and 1 Second

By ANDREW MERKEL, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aboard U.S. coastguard cutter Mendota, Newport, R.I., Sept. 18.—Endeavour lead Rainbow all around a thirty-mile triangular course to-day to make it two straight in Great Britain's fifteenth bid for the America's Cup. She won by fifty-one seconds.

T. O. M. Sopwith, skipper of the challenger, outguessed Harold S. Vanderbilt at the starting line, crossing at a twelve-knot clip.

Rainbow had the preferred weather position, but Vanderbilt was too close to the line and had to stop the defender's way in order not to beat the starting signal. The result was Endeavour shot immediately ahead after the start and was never headed again.

The challenger proved she is the faster boat both on and off the wind in the moderate weather of the day.

The Endeavour's crew handled sails promptly at all times and this proved an important factor in the win.

It also enabled Sopwith to break the record for a triangular course set by Enterprise in 1930.

Her time was 3 hours, 9 minutes, 1 second, compared with Enterprise's old cup record of 3.10.13.

With the start at 10.40 a.m. E.S.T., the official finish was: Endeavour, 1.49.01; Rainbow, 1.49.52.

FIRST SINCE 1920

It was the second time in the eighty-three-year history of the international racing classic that a British boat has won two successive races. The other time was in 1920 when the late Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV defeated Resolute in the first two races, only to lose the next three and her chance at the cup.

To-day's race was one of the closest in cup history, but it established Endeavour as a favorite to regain the famous trophy won by the schooner America in 1851 and successfully defended against fifteen challengers.

Endeavour had all the hard luck with a torn jib and difficulty with her reaching jib as she rounded the first buoy.

BREEZE VARIED

The race was sailed in a breeze which at times reached a velocity of 14 knots, but which dropped away to 9 at the finish.

To-day's race was the second complete contest, the first race Saturday being declared off when neither yacht was able to finish within the time limit of 5½ hours. Rainbow was leading then, but in the heavier winds of yesterday and to-day Endeavour has clearly shown her superiority.

The series will be decided when one of the sloops wins four races.

NEXT RACE NOT YET SET

The committee boat signaled the contenders, asking them if they wished to race to-morrow, to which T. O. M. Sopwith, Endeavour's skipper-owner, immediately responded in the affirmative. Vanderbilt had not

By A. J. McKENNA, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal, Sept. 18.—Right Rev. D. T. Owen, Bishop of Toronto, to-day was elected Primate of the Church of England in Canada, in succession to the late Most Rev. Clarendon L. Worrell, Archbishop of Nova Scotia.

While details of Bishop Owens's election were not made public, it was believed he was selected on the seventh ballot of the electoral college at the General Synod in session here to-day.

As a result of the election, Bishop Owen automatically became an archbishop.

The electoral college met after divine service in Christ Church Cathedral, at which Most Rev. A. U. de Pencier, Archbishop of New Westminster, was celebrant, assisted by Most Rev. J. C. Roper, Archbishop of Ottawa, and Most Rev. I. O. Springer, Archbishop of Rupert's Land.

DEAN CARLISLE CHAIRMAN

Very Rev. Dean A. Carlisle of Montreal was named chairman, and Rev. Canon F. H. Hartley, Toronto, and E. J. Fream, Edmonton, secretaries.

After nearly two hours of balloting this forenoon the electoral college had failed to reach a decision on the three names sent to it by the upper house of bishops on the first ballot. The college then adjourned until later and in the after-

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, issued the following statement on the subject:

"The finance department has received wires from some of the financial houses in Toronto whose names were in the advertisement, stating their names were attached without their knowledge.

Liberal Chieftain Finds Hall at Enterprise, Ont., So Crowded He Enters Through Window; Believes Five Ridings Will Declare For Government Change

Enterprise, Ont., Sept. 18.—So great was the crowd jamming the hall where Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, opposition leader, spoke yesterday evening in the interests of Colin A. Campbell, Liberal candidate in the Frontenac-Addington federal by-election, he had to find other means than the front door to reach the platform.

A stepladder was found and placed against one of the rear windows and the Liberal chieftain in the Dominion Parliament climbed the ladder and stepped through the window.

When he reached the platform a small girl stepped up to Mr. King and presented him with a bouquet of roses. After kissing the lass, Mr. King started his address.

Declaring the people of Canada ought to have an opportunity to declare themselves in a general election, Mr. King said that if the by-elections on September 24, when five will be held in Ontario, should go against the government, Premier Bennett would have "no right to remain in power an hour after the result is known."

Italy Speeds Up Military Machine

By ANDRE BERDING
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Rome, Sept. 18.—Compulsory military service for Italians, beginning at the age of eight and continuing to the age of thirty-three, was decreed today by the Council of Ministers in probably the most sweeping military law ever passed in history.

Declaring "the functions of a citizen and a soldier are not separable in the Fascist state," the council created the three following categories of compulsory military training:

(1) Preliminary—Beginning at the age of eight years;

(2) Military—Beginning at the age of twenty-one years;

(3) Post-military — Continuing for ten years after the military phase is concluded.

TWO ESKIMOS DIE

Two Eskimos trapped by the flames burned to death.

Flames spread from the Golden Gate Hotel to the government buildings—post office, courthouse, jail and road commission headquarters. Within an hour they swept along Front Street, the town's business thoroughfare, fanned by a twenty-two-mile-an-hour wind. Russ Maynard, son of George Maynard, publisher of the city's Associated Press newspaper, cabled first word to the outside world.

Buildings were dynamited as the blaze raced to-day toward Front Street. A number of white persons were injured. At the hospital physicians said several were in a serious condition.

FOOD DESTROYED

Most of the city's food supply was consumed by the fire—a dire predicament for a city as isolated as Nome, which imports all it eats. Food and material to rebuild the city must be brought in by ship before ice freezes out all vessels six weeks hence.

Hundreds of Nome's summer population of 1,000 were utterly homeless to-day. In winter time the city has about 1,500 residents.

The temperature is near the freezing point.

Relief kitchens fed the city temporarily. City officials began a survey while the embers still glowed to determine how long the remaining food would last.

SUPPLIES ON WAY

Already new supplies are on the way aboard the liner Victoria, due in Nome a week hence.

The most powerful agency left undestroyed here by the fire was the United States military wireless and cable station, through which appeals went out for federal coastguard cutters, for food, clothing and shelter from Seattle.

The populace was saved from worse suffering because the conflagration broke out this month. In a short time ice will lock the harbor, which opens on Norton Sound, which again leads to Bering Sea, and even ships cannot come to aid the citizens. Only airplanes and dog teams can soar over the frozen tundras or plod across them.

LOMENS LOSE

The Lomen Reindeer Company, largest firm handling reindeer in the world, was a heavy loser in the fire, as several buildings were razed.

Little fear of disease was felt here to-day, because the Maynard Columbus Methodist Hospital was still standing, and the Arctic Transport Company, subsidiary of the Lomen interests, had 1,000 tons of coal available.

Shelter was a pressing problem, for the winter had almost begun, and lumber must come from Seattle to build houses. Food was the other great need.

Most of Nome's buildings were of wood. That was why the fire, starting in a wooden edifice, spread so rapidly, and why the flames could not be checked with the feeble means at hand.

Nome was a fairly modern city, for cities up near the Arctic Circle. It had electricity, a good government and most modern conveniences, but to-day it is a desolation.

COLORFUL PAGE

Nome, magnet of the world during the great Alaska and Yukon gold rushes, became a colorful page in history in 1898 when placer miners discovered the yellow metal near the town that was just a collection of shacks. More than $1,000,000 came out of this district in one month.

When the magic word "gold" was broadcast in 1899, Nome soon acquired a population of 20,000 persons. Dance halls and saloons, gambling halls and similar rough-hewn palaces of pleasure sprang up like mushrooms. That was the heyday of such characters as Robert Service's "Lady Known As Lou," "Dan McGrew," "Sam McGee," and the rest of them.

The city near Bering Sea became a synonym for the romance of the great northland, and all the legend as Alaska and the Yukon Territory became associated loosely in the popular mind with Nome.

Gold nuggets, Rex Beach, Robert W. Service, the flaming northern lights, reindeer, "Klondike Kate," Balto, the husky dog that led a team of malamutes carrying diphtheria serum to save dying children, Arctic explorers—all these ideas, erroneously or not, clustered around the name of Nome.

FACE REBUILDING TASK

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 18.—After a night of despair and suffering and of guarding the fire-demolished famous gold mining town from drink-crazed Eskimos who wandered the smoldering streets like barbarians, Nome sourdoughs to-day faced the gigantic task of rebuilding in the next six weeks before ice and snow block all transportation except dog team and plane.

Although weary from their six-hour battle with the fire, federal officials and volunteer sourdoughs patrolled the district all through the night to prevent the frightened and drink-crazed Eskimos from looting and pilfering the ruins. Many were placed under arrest and locked up in improvised jails in small cabins, the city jails having been destroyed.

Alfred J. Lomen, manager of the Lomen Commercial Company, said:

"The amount of damage in dollars and cents alone can never be estimated, but it is my belief that not less than $2,000,000 have gone up in smoke."

"With winter coming on we need help for those who were unable to save anything.

Lomen lost his home and a drug store in the flames, but large warehouses of the Lomen Commercial Company were saved.

LOSES ALL EQUIPMENT

George S. Maynard, publisher of The Nome Daily Nugget and the Associated Press correspondent, who had just returned to Nome from a 12,000-mile auto trip in the United States, lost all of his equipment, from linotypes to presses, but managed to save some bedding and clothing.

Maynard prepared to continue to issue his paper with a duplicating machine.

Grant R. Jackson, president of the Miners' and Merchants' Bank of Nome, lost all his property in the fire, which he described as "one of the most sorrowful features during my life at Nome."

"I am not worried over by personal affairs and those of my wife, but for the poor people who are unable to get homes rebuilt before the winter," he said.

"We need help for the community as the freezeup is coming on.

"I have never seen such horrible damage done by any fire. The entire business district is wiped out. Not a building is standing on Front Street from the railroad tracks at the east end of town westward to the Snake River harbor."

All during the night many persons sat in the freezing weather watching the remnants of their homes gradually subside and become but glowing coals.

HOLDING UP WELL

Pathetic countenances were visible, but the majority held up well under the terrific strain. Looks of despair finally turned to hope as sleeping quarters were hurriedly arranged and a community kitchen was made available. A majority of the residents managed to obtain a few hours' sleep this morning.

When the fire began eating into the heart of the business district, gravel trucks, livery wagons and private trucks and autos were commandeered to haul groceries and clothing a safe distance away. Men worked until they dropped in their tracks and were then helped away from the blazing and falling buildings by volunteer women.

TOWN IN DARKNESS

The town was thrown into darkness when electric power equipment burned, and all work and salvage operations had to be done by the light of the flames. Heavy safes in office buildings along the waterfront fell from the ruins and were buried in the sand of Bering Beach. Some were pushed into the street before the fire reached the structures.

Early to-day Nome was surrounded by dense clouds of smoke and the Bering Sea off the waterfront was black with debris.

SHIP TO CARRY SUPPLIES

Seattle, Sept. 18.—As a special relief ship to the fireswept town of Nome, the steamer Dellwood will sail from Seattle for the Alaska port Saturday with a capacity cargo of 5,000 tons of foodstuffs and building materials, officials of the Alaska Steamship Company announced to-day. The vessel will start loading to-morrow.

to default. The government has not advocated default," he said.

In the latter reference Mr. Hart was dealing with statements in the advertisement that "The present government now appears to be trying to force default and repudiation by all municipalities before government grants will be allowed to them," and that many home owners "will become public charges if bond interest is defaulted as advocated by the government." There was no truth in these statements, the minister said.

Four new justices of the peace for British Columbia were named to-day by the government as follows: Stewart Henderson, Wilson Creek; William Herrin, West Vancouver; James Riddle, Port Hammond; J. B. Martyn, Port Haney. The appointment of John G. Graham, Nootka, was cancelled.

Mastheadman Knocked Out

Endeavour's Victory in First Yacht Race Came After Accident

By TOM HORGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Newport, R.I., Sept. 18.—Endeavour's victory over Rainbow in the first America's Cup race yesterday was despite an accident in which her mastheadman was knocked unconscious for an hour.

Jim Taw went aloft just before the start to clear the main halyard of the British challenger which had become fouled around her mast. The big blue sloop was dancing around in the uneasy sea, and Taw, tied in a bos'n's chair, was pounded against the mast. He was lowered unconscious to the deck, but in an hour he recovered his senses and insisted on performing his duties throughout the remainder of the race.

It was this mishap to the challenger's running gear that caused the race committee to postpone the start fifteen minutes. Endeavour's mate, Ally Day, took Taw's place in the bos'n's chair, but before he could be hoisted up the towering mast, one of her amateur crew, Ernest Moltzer, insisted on taking his place.

SOPWITH ENTHUSIASTIC

T. O. M. Sopwith, owner and skipper of the challenger, was enthusiastic in his praise of Moltzer and the other members of his crew, amateur and professional, as he was over his initial victory over the defender.

"After Taw was knocked out," he said, "Moltzer insisted that if anyone was going to get in trouble he did not want to have the mate put out of it, so he got in the bos'n's chair. He is a grand fellow. He just got back to England about a week before we left after sailing on one of the square riggers in the grain race from Australia.

"We did not ask for the postponement, but the race committee very kindly gave it to us. There are fine fellows on the committee. As a matter of fact, with the postponement, we just got back to the line in time, but we had a grand start. Endeavour was moving about ten and one-half knots at the start.

"We are naturally very happy about the race. It was one of the grandest I ever had in my life. Whoever wins the series, it will have been worthwhile coming over.

"I was very sorry to see Rainbow's spinnaker beam jump out of the socket, but we were fairly past her when it happened."

Endeavour Victor In Second Yacht Race

yet answered when the press boat left the scene. Each captain is allowed a twenty-four-hour postponement to make repairs or alterations to his boat if he desires.

The feat of Sopwith and Endeavour in taking two races really overshadows that of Shamrock IV as one of her victories was scored when Resolute was disabled. Both of Endeavour's triumphs have been clear-cut.

HELD HER LEAD

The superiority shown by the challenger on the first two legs of to-day's race was maintained on the final reach of ten miles for home.

Sopwith tacked around the second mark followed by Rainbow one minute and thirty seconds later. Both broke out balloons with equal success.

At this stage the wind was diminishing, but the possible inferiority of the British sloop in lighter airs was not in evidence as she bowled along with approximately the same lead she had at the second turn. Barring accidents, the race was won before it was over.

THE START

As the Endeavour and Rainbow went out this morning to resume their rivalry, a northwest breeze of seven to eight knots was blowing off Brenton's Reef.

An early drizzle of rain had ceased, but the sky remained overcast and the spectator fleet, of almost unmanagable proportions Saturday, had noticeably dwindled.

Endeavour was first at the scene and had her mainsail, with which she had so much trouble yesterday, already set before Rainbow came up under tow of her tender Vara.

The committee boat hoisted the course signals at 10.15 a.m., E.S.T., setting a thirty-mile triangular course with the first ten miles a broad reach, the second a beat and the last a close reach.

The directions of the course were given as south by west on the first leg, northwest on the second and east-northeast a half east on the third.

The breeze had freshened to an estimated nine to ten knots twenty minutes before starting time, 10.40 a.m.

As Endeavour and Rainbow jockeyed behind the line awaiting the starting signal the yacht Nourmahal with President Roosevelt aboard came by, dipping her colors to the British yacht as she passed. The President waved a greeting from the deck.

They were off at 10.42 a.m.

Harold S. Vanderbilt, at the helm of the defender, sent her boiling across the starting line in the windward berth some five seconds ahead of T. O. M. Sopwith and his Endeavour.

HOLE IN JIB

A tear was showing in the challenger's jib.

There was a noticeable rent in the clew, appearing some two minutes before the start, too late for the British crew to shift canvas.

Soon after they crossed the line another tear appeared in the jib, just above the first, but Sopwith held to his course, gambling on the sail holding until they could get settled down to racing.

The tear was not at the point of greatest strain and was said to be no particular handicap, unles it should spread.

Both yachts had good way on as they crossed the line, but the challenger was well under Rainbow's lee.

Soon after the start, however, Sopwith appeared to be bettering his position, working the big blue-hulled Endeavour through the defender's lee.

On a broad reach, too, there is not the advantage in the windward berth there is on a beat, such as the first leg of yesterday's race, where Vanderbilt also had the advantage.

Sopwith sent up a quadrilateral jib in stops, ready to break it out if his torn jib should give way entirely.

Both skippers started with a double head rig. Vanderbilt soon doused his staysail, then thought better of it and set it again a few minutes later.

ENDEAVOUR SOON IN LEAD

Twenty minutes after the start Endeavour was a few yards in the lead.

Both were making excellent time in the freshening breeze. They were outdistancing the spectator fleet, and even the official boats had a hard time keeping up with them.

At 11.24 a.m., forty-four minutes after the start, Endeavour appeared to be holding the advantage she gained soon after crossing the line, but as the mark must be left to starboard and Rainbow was holding the windward berth it was a question if the challenger would be able to hold the right of way.

Sopwith decided to douse his reaching jib at that point and the challenger's crew let the big sail get away from them, where it trailed in the water.

It was several minutes before they could get it inboard and clear the deck. Finally a quadrilateral jib was set in its place.

Vanderbilt also doused his reaching jib soon after and it also almost got away from the hands, but they finally pulle dit in. They then set a quadrilateral.

AT TEN-MILE MARK

Endeavour led Rainbow by fifteen seconds at the end of the first ten-mile leg of the thirty-mile triangular course, a broad reach which had been sailed in a breeze freshening from ten knots at the start.

Having overcome a slight disadvantage at the start and a torn jib sail, Sopwith sent the challenger around the mark at the end of the broad reach fifty-six minutes and thirty-five seconds after the start, only six seconds above the cup record for a ten-mile leg set in 1932 by Vigilant.

Endeavour's time at the mark was 11.36.35 a.m., and Rainbow 11.36.50.

IN WINDWARD BERTH

Endeavour took the windward berth—the favored position—as they rounded the mark and started the ten-mile beat.

Endeavour luffed around the buoy on a starboard tack and Rainbow came about the buoy to port tack. Endeavour immediately tacked to port on her weather to cover. Five minutes after rounding the first mark Rainbow tacked, immediately followed by Endeavour. The yachts were engaged in a tacking match.

Endeavour semed to be sailing at a smaller angle of heel in the fresh northwest breeze. Endeavour's crew were now handling sails like veterans.

Endeavour had worked well up to weather of Rainbow at 12 noon and maintained her lead over the defender.

Endeavour had worked well up to weather of Rainbow at 12 noon and maintained her lead over the defender.

Endeavour was increasing her lead slightly on the thresh to windward.

The breeze was moderating at 12.30 o'clock as the two boats continued along the ten-mile beat to the second mark.

QUARTER MILE AHEAD

Endeavour came about on the starboard tack at 12.38 o'clock, followed by Rainbow, to give the first definite line on their relative positions. The manoeuvre showed the British challenger to have at least a quarter of a mile lead and it looked like a hopeless task for Rainbow.

They had held on the port tack for forty minutes without touching their canvas, but with Endeavour pointing much higher into the wind and going along better than the defender.

The British sloop's elapsed time for the windward leg of 1.17.01 bettered the cup record, set by Reliance in 1903, by 2 minutes 57 seconds, but a shift in the wind had made the last hitch of to-day's beat more of a reach than a beat, and the comparison hardly would stand challenge.

AT TWENTY-MILE MARK

Endeavour rounded the twenty-mile mark of the thirty-mile triangular course at 12.53.36, well ahead of the United States sloop.

Rainbow turned the mark at 12.55.10, a minute 34 seconds behind the British boat.

Endeavour had increased her margin in the ten-mile best to windward by a minute 29 seconds on a leg where Rainbow was thought to have the advantage in sailing.

From the twenty-mile mark it was a close reach home.

YESTERDAY'S SPEED

Newport, R.I., Sept. 18.—Top speed for either Endeavour or Rainbow in yesterday's America's Cup race was eleven miles an hour. The speed each boat was traveling at all times was calculated by Ensign Donald Adams, Chief Quartermaster Yankowich and their assistants in the chart room on the coastguard cutter Mendota.

UNUSUAL EJACULATIONS

New York, Sept. 18.—Ah! Oh! Wot! Don't tell me! Well, I'll be—were some of the expressions reported in newspaper offices announcing over the telephone the victory of T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour over Harold S. Vanderbilt's Rainbow in the first America's Cup race.

The Herald-Tribune politely reported a "mild oath" on the part of an Englishman who could not believe it.

Scenes Like This Call for Fast Work In Stowing Sail

Stretched before the wind, a sail is a thing of beauty, strong and useful, but freed from its clews and tackle it is transformed in an instant into an awkward, writhing menace. This unusual view along the deck of the Rainbow shows the huge mainsail half suspended in air, half on deck. In this situation quick work is required to make it fast, lest a sudden gust of wind entangle it with important halyards and exact a penalty of minutes lost to the rival racing yacht.

By-elections Great Test For Bennett Cabinet, Says King

parliamentary inquiry had developed largely as a result of Bennett administration policies.

"These conditions," he asserted, "have come about largely during the period of the present government." The result of the investigation thus far had been to show that policies of the government had lowered wages, encouraged sweat shops and reduced prices, he said.

GRAVE ISSUE

Mr. King also directed a broadside at Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, on the ground that the latter had said the results of five Ontario by-elections would make no difference to the length of the government's term of office.

"In other words, you are the servants, not the masters of the government," he said.

Dr. Manion's remark raised a grave issue, he said. It was that notwithstanding what the will of the people might be, a government could go on and retain power. He charged that certain acts of the government savored of a dictatorship, and warned that it might be dangerous to permit the government to remain in power for another year, because of harm it might do.

CANDIDATE SPEAKS

Mr. King was supported by the Liberal candidate, Colin Campbell, who said "President Roosevelt invited this country to change its government so he could do business with it."

It was Mr. King's second speech of the "miniature general election" campaign. Last week he started the ball rolling at Kenora and to-morrow he will address a meeting at Markham in the constituency of North York.

William A. Fraser, Liberal M.P. for Northumberland, introduced Mr. King yesterday evening in a brief speech. He said the Conservatives were now fighting a "rear-guard action."

Hon. R. J. Manion had declared at Toronto the Liberals were "again hiding behind the shroud" of Sir Henry Thornton, he went on. "If anyone is tributary to the death of Sir Henry Thornton it is Hon. R. J. Manion," declared Mr. Fraser. He referred to Hon. H. H. Stevens as a "political hypocrite," who had stood up in the House of Commons and voted against the Combines Act which was designed to correct the very abuses Stevens was now protesting against.

PEOPLE WILL DECIDE

"The people of Canada have at last come to say to themselves, "We are going to settle the affairs of Canada ourselves," Mr. King asserted. The government was "clinging on to office and holding it for the fruits of office."

He paid his compliments to the chairman, related to Senator Sir Allen Aylesworth, to Miss Mowat, and to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Premier of Saskatchewan. To the last named he expressed congratulations for the recent Liberal victory in that western province.

OPPORTUNITY AT POLLS

"At no time since the period of the Great War has the world been facing more serious issues than to-day," Mr. King informed his audience. "The present is a very serious and a critical time." And at such times it was important for the people to have an opportunity to express themselves.

This opportunity would come through the five by-elections in Ontario. "I say to Mr. Bennett that if the five by-elections go against him he has no right to remain in power an hour after the result is known," said Mr. King.

Only in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island the Conservatives remained in power, and Mr. King predicted defeat for those governments as soon as the electors were given an opportunity to go to the polls.

IN CLASS WITH CHINA

Russia, Italy, China and Venezuela were the only world countries which had not been given an opportunity to go to the polls in the last four years, said Mr. King. Canada came in that category.

"There has been no limit which this government has set to prevent trade coming into this country," said Mr. King. He charged tariff increases of 200, 300 and 400 per cent had been made by the Bennett government. "Perhaps a protest from a strong Conservative seat like Frontenac-Addington will bring them to their senses," he remarked.

"Mr. Bennett has already held five full sessions of Parliament," continued the Liberal leader.

"I tell Mr. Bennett that if he and his party remain in office for the full period of five years, neither he nor any member of his government will likely see office again."

RUSSIA TAKES LEAGUE SEAT

Detectives there kept the crowd moving along the sidewalk.

By a coincidence, the Soviet representatives had selected for their headquarters the hotel in which former Foreign Minister Guegeutckoi of Georgia lives. Georgia recently petitioned the League to induce Russia to restore her independence.

The vote on the admission of Russia was thirty-nine in favor, three in opposition and seven not voting.

COUNCIL SEAT

Immediately afterward the Assembly concurred in the council's decision to grant Russia a permanent seat in the League Council.

Salvador de Madariaga of Spain presented the report recommending the admission of Russia into the League.

"I have the honor," said the Spanish delegate, "to propose the admission of Russia. I hope other countries who seem to be on the threshold of the League—though some are turning the head in the other direction—will co-operate with the League.

"Especially I hope the great American republic, whose co-operation is so essential to us, will add to that element the universality which is still necessary for the very existence of the Geneva organization."

WELCOM BY COMMUNISTS

Communist placards posted yesterday evening on many shop windows welcomed Soviet Russia into the League of Nations. Communists here were prompt to seize the opportunity of the Assembly's vote. The signs they pasted up read for the most part: "Welcome to the union of Socialist Soviet Republics which brings us peace."

Switzerland was most outspoken of the new nations opposed to Russian entry, but Giuseppe Motta, the Swiss spokesman, indicated privately he is not in favor of any movement for his country to resign now that Russian is a member.

The juridical committee of the Assembly decided to concentrate on conciliation in an endeavor to end the long drawn out conflict between Paraguay and Bolivia in the Chaco district.

The committee decided the League had the right to proceed with an inquiry under that section of article 15 of the covenant which provides for conciliation.

J. R. Dougall, Montreal, Dies

his personal relations with leading French-Canadians in Montreal were invariably of the friendliest kind.

Mr. Dougall served his paper seventy-three years without accepting salary or dividends.

His paper, originally a daily, became a weekly in 1913 after many reversals of fortune. Mr. Dougall espoused no political party and was militantly independent. He clung to his editorial policies despite all opposition and pressure.

INTERVIEWED LINCOLN

In 1870, J. R. Dougall became editor of the paper his father had founded in 1860. John Redpath Dougall as an active young journalist, interviewed President Abraham Lincoln in the White House, looked down on the streets of Paris as the victorious Prussian troops marched through the city in 1871, and witnessed the tumult in Rome which followed Garibaldi's campaign for the unification of Italy.

MEMOIRS AWAITED

His memoirs, when they come to be published, will provide sidelights on many notable people with whom Mr. Dougall came in contact. He enjoyed the friendship of public men in Canada from before Confederation and one of his warmest admirers was Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who never visited Montreal without calling on Mr. Dougall.

Another world figure who was strongly atttracted to the Montreal editor was Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of Republican China, who always caled at The Witness office when passing through Canada.

Frequently Mr. Dougall found all opposing parties and sects lined up against him at once. His paper suffered financially, but was nourished constantly from the Dougall private fortune.

More recently, The Montreal Witness has been given over to the spreading of the Oxford Group principles and the son of the late Mr. Dougall was among the party which visited Victoria this summer prior to the Banff House Party.

LICENSE FEES FAIL TO HELP

Sum of $7,195.28 For Nanaimo City Is Offset By Contra Account

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Sept. 18.—Nanaimo City Council criticized the report of the provincial government on the distribution of license fees under the Motor and Vehicle Act at a meeting last night. Mayor Barsby said it sounded nice to get a cheque for $7,195.28, but the trouble was there was no cheque. Nanaimo's share had been offset by a contra account.

The mayor said Nanaimo had paid monthly for the girls' industrial school and for keeping of prisoners and policing, and if they were to receive credit for paying these bills he thought it a good plan to stop paying them. Alderman Cavalsky on moving the statement be filed would call the attention of the government to the fact that Nanaimo bills were paid as they became due. Alderman Dixon sarcastically remarked that the government should be thanked "for the way they are helping Nanaimo out of the depression." A resolution will be forwarded to the minister of mines, and Dr. Carrothers, urging the government to place a tax on fuel oil sufficient to protect local industry. Alderman Inkster, submitting a report on the unemployed, said there was an average of 1,006 on relief from January to August, 1934, against 953 for 1933, the percentage of population for 1934 being 15.1.

Supplementary warrants of $15,255.63 for August and $11,394.38 for September were referred to the finance committee for payment.

MISS KIRKHAM IS DEFEATED

holes on the outward trip and succeeded in staving off a fighting challenge by Miss Kirkham to end the match on the seventeenth hole, known as the "graveyard."

Another Montrealer, however, gained the distinction of administering the lone setback to the British hopes by her 1 up victory over Mrs. George Coats, member of the mother country's Curtis Cup squad.

The prospects of the title taking a trip overseas gained momentum, however, with five of the Britons scoring decisive victories to-day.

Not since Mrs. W. A. Gavin, England, won the championship back in 1922 has the Dominion's major title taken a trip abroad. But Miss Doris Chambers, Molly Gourlay, Mrs. J. B. Walker, Diana Plumpton and Mrs. Alec Gold, all played magnificently to continue their march toward the throne-room.

Ten homebreds out of a qualifying list of twenty-four, survived the first-round ordeal with Mrs. Vera Ford, Vancouver, and Mrs. Roy H. Horne, Edmonton, outlasting their opposition to advance. Winnipeg's lone qualifier, Mrs. R. E. Bearisto, was sent to the sidelines by the brilliant Mrs. J. B. Walker of the British international team. She dropped the decision 5 and 4.

Miss Ada Mackenzie, defending champion of Toronto, and medalist, played superlative golf to eliminate Mrs. John Arends, Detroit, 5 and 3. Toronto sent three other players into the second round, Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen, Mrs. R. Holmes and Mrs. C. S. Eddis.

Ottawa's ace performer, Mrs. W. G. Fraser, went into the second round joined by the stylist Evelyn Mills, who eliminated her club-mate, Lorna Blackburn, 3 and 1.

Miss Mary Hunter gave Hamilton an even break with a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. J. Dagenais, Montreal. The other Hamilton representative, Mrs. C. H. Shutleworth, bowed to Mrs. Fraser, Ottawa, 4 and 3.

To-morrow's second-round matches will bring together Miss Mackenzie and Mrs. Walker; Miss Chambers and Mrs. Gold; Mrs. Darling and Miss Mills; Miss Gourlay and Miss Hunter; Miss Plumpton and Mrs. Horne; Mrs. Eddis and Mrs. Fraser; Mrs. Mulqueen and Mrs. Holmes; Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Harbaugh.

Aid For Canadians In Need in Russia

Canadian Press

Geneva, Sept. 18.—Approving Russian entry into the League of Nations, Canada yesterday asked assurance that people in Canada or elsewhere having relatives in the Soviet country, who might suffer from famine reported in many districts, should have the right to render assistance.

Dr. O. D. Skelton, Canadian spokesman, said he believed Russia would be prepared to sanction any assistance devoid of political bias.

DISCOVER KEY TO HEREDITY

Huge Chromosome Expected to Prove "Rosetta Stone" of Investigation

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y., Sept. 18.—The living equivalent for heredity of the Rosetta Stone—a visible key to the thousands of heredity seeds known to exist in every body—is on demonstration here at the station for experimental evolution.

Discovery of this heredity key, which promises to explain the mysteries of evolution much as the Rosetta Stone did the Egyptian hieroglyphs, was described by Dr. Calvin B. Briges of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

The results reported on here are said to be one of the most significant steps in advancement of the knowledge concerning the relation between hereditary units, the "genes," and the structure of the "chromosomes of which they are strung in long rows.

NOT SEEN BEFORE

Genes are so small that until the finding of this "Rosetta Stone" one had never been seen clearly.

They control development of such bodily characteristics as color of the hair or eyes in human beings, or a mental trait or the predisposition to a certain disease.

The modern "Rosetta Stone" is a giant chromosome, so large the spots occupied by the separate genes along its length are thought to be identifiable. Actually a number of these spots have been proved to be separate genes, and it is expected the whole gene "necklace" of heredity will be found the same at these first few.

BARONESS SHOT BY YOUNG LOVER

Associated Press

Cahors, France, Sept. 17.—A drama of hopelees love, police disclosed yesterday, has stricken one of France's most aristocratic families in the slaying of Baroness Bertrade de Sevin, daughter of Princess Wagram, by a youthful electrician who took his own life.

Guy, seven-year-old son of the Baroness, found his mother dead in her bed Saturday morning, shot through the head. At the foot of the bed the child found Raoul Magnat, thirty-five, who had been employed to install electrical appliances in the chateau. A pistol was clutched in his hand and there was a bullet wound in his head.

Violette, a four-year-old daughter of the Baroness, who shared her mother's room, cried out "Magnat shot mother."

Canadian Weeklies In London Unite

Canadian Press

London, Sept. 18.—The weekly illustrated paper Canada, published here for the last twenty-seven years, is being merged with another weekly, The Canadian Gazette.

The editor and founder of the former publication, Walter Lefroy, is closing thirty-seven years of prominent association with Canadian news works in London.

The directors of Canada remark the recent years of depression severely affected the fortunes of many newspapers. It has been wisely decided the two Canadian weeklies in London should cease their "wasteful competition," they say.

Mr. Lefroy established the British Columbia Review before founding Canada.

SUIT DROPPED IN B.C. CASE

Vancouver, Sept. 18.—Suit of Mrs. Florence A. Wills, Vancouver, to restrain the Royal Bank of Canada from paying $200,000 to the American Bond Company of Baltimore, was abandoned yesterday in B.C. Supreme Court here before Chief Justice Aulay Morrison.

Mrs. Wills alleged the money had been deposited by her as indemnity for bail provided by the bonding company for her brother, George C. Reifel, and her father, Henry Reifel, facing criminal charges in Seattle. She claimed the arrangement was invalid.

She had been granted an interim injunction by Mr. Justice A. L. Fisher, restraining the bank from making the payment.

STRIKE DEATHS IN PHILIPPINES

U.S. Army Troops in Readiness in Manila as Riots Grow

Associated Press

Manila, Sept. 18.—United States Army troops and Philippine constabulary were being held in readiness to-day, three cigar making strikers having been killed and many strikers and police injured in rioting yesterday.

The police fired riot guns into a crowd of several hundred pickets who were trying to charge into the La Minerva Cigar Factory in the centre of Manila. The plant was operating with non-union workers.

Five of the nineteen wounded, who included one woman and nine policemen, may die.

The fighting was an outgrowth of the strike of 5,000 cigar makers for higher wages which began nearly a month ago.

Alarmed by the rioting, the Legislature ordered an immediate investigation be made of "this tragic event which has no precedent in the annals of labor struggles in the Philippines." The deaths were said to be the first in strikes in the islands.

SOLDIERS—THEN AND NOW

Written specially for The Victoria Daily Times

By DR. THEODORE GOODRIDGE ROBERTS

No. 8

In the first gas attack of that war, a Canadian battalion left a jammed machine gun in a gas-filled, shattered bit of trench. Those first machine guns were hard hitters, but many of them were tricky and temperamental. One sunshiny September or October morning of that same year, a hostile plane came to grief halfway between the German parapet and the Canadian. It had been flying too low and rifle fire from the trench had brought it down. Canadians sapped out to it, under heavy fire from the enemy, who were anxious to make junk of it. The Canadians salvaged it, bit by bit, and a dead pilot and a wounded observer into the bargain. One of the bits salvaged was a machine gun—a Colt gun—a marked gun. The mark was of a Canadian battalion—of the very battalion, in fact, that brought down the plane and salvaged the gun from the wreck. It was the very gun that had jammed in April and been left in a gas-filled trench, returned by the wildest chance to its original owners. And it came home in the same condition in which it had been discarded and disowned—jammed!

TIN HATS

Canada had two divisions in the field before the neat little Lewis gun, the nifty Stokes mortar and the admirable tin hat were invented. Even gas masks and Mills's grenades were unknown when the First Division took the field, and held it. The little grenades with the safety-pin attachment were a great improvement upon the trench-made missiles of the first days, which were made up haphazardly of scraps and dabs of junk and explosives in plum-and-apple tins. The Lewis gun and the tin hat came to the Canadians at about the same time. The first issue of tin hats amounted to ten lids per company of infantry, and until enough arrived for all hands, nobody would wear the queer things. Who would be one of ten in a company to hide under a steel lid? No man of spirit, certainly. But when enough for all came up, they became very popular, though they always looked idiotic on some good soldiers. General Mercer in a tin hat always reminded me of Don Quixote.

HE WOULD NOT SURRENDER

General Mercer was the first commander of the First Canadian Infantry Brigade. Later, he organized and commanded the Third Canadian Division. He was lean; he wore drooping mustaches; his facial expression and manner were mild and kindly. His voice had a pleasant drawl, as I recall it, and he painted in water colors. His pictures were not startling; delicate little scenes of Flemish roads and poplars and pale skies. He was homelike and gentle and chatty, but when his dander was up—good night! This is hearsay, for I never saw or heard him when his dander was up. His dander was up that June morning in 1916, at Sanctuary Wood, when Hell broke loose suddenly on the Canadian position. He was in the front line, inspecting. That section of trench was cut off in a minute, and there the enemy found him and tried to take him prisoner. But they did not take him, dead or alive. They killed him. When his body was discovered, he had a German rifle in his hands, and dead Germans lay near him.

COUNT SLAVES AT 6,000,000

Cardinal Biondi Appeals For Ending of Servitude in World

By ANDRUE BERDING

Rome, Sept. 18.—An estimate there are 6,000,000 slaves still in the world was made yesterday by Cardinal Fumasoni Biondi in a plea for the church to continue its efforts to eliminate human servitude.

In a letter to the bishops of Australia, New Zealand and the Dutch East Indies Cardinal Fumasoni Biondi, prefect of the Congregation for the Propagation of Faith, which controls all Roman Catholic missions, calls attention to "the importance of the church anti-slavery programme as enunciated by Pope Leo XIII."

The press bureau of the congregation in a statement based on the letter said:

"It can be said that practically every government in the world has officially outlawed slavery to-day. Nevertheless, it is estimated there are some 6,0000,000 people still held in bondage.

"These slaves are in the remote corners of Ethiopia, Liberia, China and in a number of Moslem countries. It is said 2,000 slaves are taken yearly acoss the Red Sea from Africa for sale to Moslem masters in Arabia, while others are held in remote Moslem areas of Northern Africa."

Eighteen Are Killed By Bandits in Manchukuo

Tokio, Sept. 18.—At least eighteen persons have been killed in new outbreaks of banditry in southeastern Manchuria, according to Rengo News Agency dispatches from Mukden.

Five hundred brigands, operating like a military unit, attacked twenty heavily guarded trucks between Tunghua in southeastern Fentein province and Shanchengchen on the Mukden-Kirin Railway. Two Japanese police officers and fourteen others were reported to have been killed.

STRIKES LEAD TO SPANISH CRISIS

Madrid, Sept. 18.—With general strikes in Leon and Jerez de la Frontera and a Rightist newspaper reporting a socialist plot against the Samper government, Jose Maria Gil Robles, leader of the Agrarian Populist Party, of monarchist leanings, recommended to President Niceta Alcala Zamora yesterday the resignation of the minority government before parliament meets October 1. He urged the appointment of a majority government.

S. C. GARDINER DIES IN ONTARIO

Preston, Ont., Sept. 18.—George H. Scranton, seventy-three, president of the Derby Gas and Electric Company, Derby, Conn., and a pioneer of the gas and electric business, died here yesterday.

PLAY MEAN TRICK ON PAINLESS DENTIST

New York, Sept. 18.—A couple of Broadwaymen who are patients of Dr. Nat Lief, a painless dentist who has a collection of teeth yanked from celebrities, played a mean trick on him.

While the doctor was out of his office one of the men donned a white coat and the other wrapped a towel around his jaw Then they opened a window and in full view of crowded Broadway began yelling at the tops of their voices. The "doctor" brandished a huge mallet and chisel, and the "patient" howled as though suffering excruciating pain. In no time the street was jammed, and police came charging up to halt what looked like the preliminaries to homicide . . .

Dr. Lief lost at least two patients thereby; the jokers now are afraid to get into his chair.

WOMEN WORRY TO LIQUOR BOARD

New York, Sept. 18.—Liquor problems increase in number for the New York liquor control board. The Hotel Ansonia officials were worrying about whether men should be required to check their hats and coats before mingling at the rail with women.

At the Times Square, Patrick Devine was grumbling about women who shoulder their way to the mahogany and then complain about the color of the conversation they overhear.

Only at the Ritz was there no problem at all. It has one bar for men, another for women, and women with escorts.

In the avenue district the difficulty is mitigated a good deal by the fact that most of the customers are sitting sippers by training and inclination. These people are designated as ladies and gentlemen anyway, and it is practically certain that nobody is going to say to a strange lady: "Hello dearie; how's tricks?" At least, not in just those words.

C.N.R. Carmen Say There Should Be No Amalgamation With C.P.R.

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 18.—Amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways under private ownership was opposed in the officers' report submitted here yesterday at the convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, C.N.R. division, by Joseph Corbett of London, general chairman.

Attended by 100 delegates from all sections of the Dominion, the convention represents 8,000 men employed in the mechanical departments of the Canadian National Railways.

Plea for labor's support of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, charges that certain Canadian National Railway employees in Toronto are earning no more than $15 per week, and allegations that ex-railwaymen are forced to work in "sweatshops" for ten cents an hour were other features of the report presented yesterday.

MAN WHO AIDED DILLINGER JAILED

Associated Press

St. Paul, Md., Sept. 18.—Pat Reilly, former mascot of the St. Paul American Association baseball club, yesterday pleaded guilty in federal court to conspiracy to harbor John Dillinger in St. Paul. He was sentenced to twenty-one months in the new federal reformatory at El Reno, Okla., and to pay a fine of $2,500.

Reilly admitted in court he had visited Dillinger and several of his associates at the Little Bohemia resort in Wisconsin, where the gang escaped a federal trap, but said he did not know where the surviving gangsters are hiding now.

The former mascot is the fifth person to be sentenced here for conspiracy to harbor Dillinger.

PICKETS CLASH IN PHILADELPHIA

Associated Press

Philadelphia, Sept. 18.—Four workers were hurt, one seriously, in a clash yesterday evening between employees and pickets at the plant of Grainick Brothers, manufacturers of trunks, where a strike has been in progress for seven weeks.

Four pickets were arrested by police who responded to a riot call after three patrolmen on strike duty at the plant had found themselves overpowered.

Police said the battle began as forty employees left the plant and fists and clubs were swung for about ten minutes. The strike was called because the firm refused to renew a contract with employees.

Ottawa Makes Loan To Saskatchewan

Canadian Press

Regina, Sept. 18.—The federal government has loaned Saskatchewan $4,500,000 to meet a portion of overdue accounts for relief, seed grain, oil and gas and other supplies, totaling in all $6,800,000. This was announced yesterday by Hon. J. W. Patterson, acting provincial treasurer.

Negotiations are still proceeding to obtain the balance of the account.

J. MUNROE, CHILLIWACK, DIES

Chilliwack, B.C., Sept. 18 (Canadian Press).—James Munroe, first mayor of Chilliwack, died yesterday after an illness of two weeks. He had been in the hardware business here about forty years, and retired ten years ago.

Should Mr. Rumley use roller skates in the office?

Mr. Rumley doesn't want to use roller skates, but it would save him a lot of time in answering the telephone which is at the other end of the office, far from the desk where he works. A better way would be to have an extension telephone on Mr. Rumley's desk at a small extra cost.

TWO IN A ROW

THE PROSPECTS OF THE RETURN OF America's Cup to British soil, after an absence of eighty-three years, are very promising indeed. The first two races out of the seven which comprise the series have been won by Sopwith's challenger, the Endeavour, and hopes are running high that good fortune will attend him in the subsequent heats. So far the performance of the British yacht has shown that she is faster than the Rainbow, and that her crew have done their work most efficiently. It was naturally supposed that the weather conditions, intimately understood by the defender, would favor the Rainbow, that the Britons would have to get used to them by experience. What happened yesterday and to-day, however, tells us that the Endeavour, boat and crew, have met all the elements successfully, regardless of weather and wind.

It was in 1920 that the Shamrock IV took the first race when the contest was the best three out of five heats. The defender was the Resolute which became disabled. In the second race, however, neither boat finished within the then six-hour limit. Times for the third race, which Shamrock won, were as follows: Shamrock, 5 hours, 22 minutes, 18 seconds; Resolute, 5 hours, 24 minutes, 44 seconds. In the sixth race the boats again failed to finish within the time limit. But the Resolute won the necessary three heats to retain "the mug."

In 1930 the best "four-out-of-seven" series began and are continuing on this occasion. Again came Sir Thomas Lipton with Shamrock V. Here is the story of that series:

FIRST RACE, SEPTEMBER 13
Leeward-Windward Course

	Time	Margin
Enterprise	4.03.48	½ Mile

SECOND RACE, SEPTEMBER 15
Triangular Course

	Time	Margin
Enterprise	4.00.44	1½ Miles
Shamrock V	4.10.18

THIRD RACE, SEPTEMBER 17
Windward-Leeward Course

	Time
Enterprise	3.54.16

FOURTH RACE, SEPTEMBER 18
Triangular Course

	Time	Margin
Enterprise	3.10.13	1 Mile
Shamrock V	3.15.57

It is interesting to note that to-day's time made by the Endeavour broke the record set by the Enterprise in 1930. Her time to-day was 3 hours, 9 minutes, and 1 second, compared with Enterprise's old cup record of 3 hours, 10 minutes, and 13 seconds. This speaks volumes for the challenger's crew, largely composed of amateurs.

THE WORLD WHEAT SITUATION

THE RECENT SPECTACULAR RISE IN wheat prices has focused attention on the prospect of greatly reduced wheat supplies throughout the world. Current estimates indicate a reduction of 340,000,000 bushels in the crop in Continental Europe. Returns from the United States show a further falling off as compared with the poor harvest of 1933; the crop is reported to be the smallest in forty years. The acuteness of the situation has been accentuated by the effect of the drought upon corn and other grains. Although the outlook has since improved under more favorable conditions, Canada experienced hot, dry weather early in the season and returns will be much below the long term average. World stocks of old grain are still heavy but it is anticipated that these will be substantially reduced during the coming season and that more normal conditions of demand and supply will be established.

The crop situation in the United States is less promising than in any recent year. The total wheat crop is officially estimated at only 484,000,000 bushels as compared with 528,000,000 bushels in 1933, 744,000,000 bushels in 1932 and a five-year average production—1927-1931—of 886,000,000 bushels. A crop of the size estimated for 1934 would be the smallest raised in the United States since the 428,000,000 bushel crop of 1893. The output indicated is substantially short of the current season's domestic requirements of 600,000,000 bushels. The crop last year also failed to meet home demands. Only twice during the last forty-four years has the current year's harvest fallen below the quantity required for domestic consumption.

The production of winter wheat is forecast at 394,000,000 bushels as against 352,000,000 bushels in 1933, and a five-year average of 632,000,000 bushels. Drought conditions were general throughout the whole wheat area of the United States. While winter wheat suffered severely, conditions were even more adverse in the spring wheat districts. As a result, the area sown to spring wheat was greatly reduced and later there was heavy abandonment of the acreage seeded as crops were badly damaged. The total area harvested is placed at only 11,500,000 acres, against 19,000,000 acres last year. The spring crop is estimated at 90,000,000 bushels. This compares with 176,000,000 bushels in 1933 and an average crop of 254,000,000 bushels. There is an anticipated deficiency in all spring wheats but the supply of Durum is particularly short; some imports from Canada may be necessary to make up the amounts required for domestic purposes.

Stocks of wheat on hand in the United States on July 1, 1933, reached the record proportions of 393,000,000 bushels. These were reduced by last year's domestic demands and by exports—mainly from the Pacific Coast. On July 1, 1934, these stocks amounted to about 285,000,000 bushels and it is hoped that the current season will see the carryover reduced to normal.

In Continental Europe, estimates of 1934 wheat production at present available total 1,332 million bushels as compared with 1,672 million bushels in 1933. Slight decreases in acreages and dry weather during the growing season are responsible for the decline. France, Italy and Germany all report substantial reductions. Only three importing countries, Spain, Portugal and Greece, show material gains. In the Danubian countries, which ordinarily have a substantial surplus for export, the crops are estimated to be nearly thirty-five per cent smaller than in 1933, and nine per cent below the 1929-33 average. The outturn will be somewhat larger than in 1932, when exports amounted to only 12,000,000 bushels. Estimates for England and Wales are not yet available but a six per cent increase is reported in the acreage sown.

JOHN WISEBORD'S WINNINGS

THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS WAS the amount of the prize won by John Wisebord of Orangeville, Ontario, with a ticket in a Canadian sweepstake on the St. Leger. During the week-end he was somewhat doubtful as to whether he would be able to collect it. At the last session of Parliament the law was changed so that the Attorney-General of any province of which a lucky winner is a citizen can institute action and claim the prize. Formerly a "common informer" could sue for it—a subterfuge, usually collusion between the winner and the "informer."

However, Mr. Wisebord's mind has been set at rest by a statement from Attorney-General Roebuck of Ontario, who says the government of which he is a member has no intention to try to seize the winnings in question. As far as Mr. Roebuck is concerned, Mr. Wisebord can "bring home his $30,000 prize and hold all the celebration he likes without fear of interference" from his department.

The chief thing the Attorney-General had in mind, we are told, "was the contest of jurisdiction between the province and the Dominion. . . . If the money was to be forfeited to His Majesty, as provided for by law, I contend the province should receive the prize. . . . Until there is a more settled public opinion on the question I don't feel myself called upon to take action."

Attorney-Genaral Roebuck has set a precedent which "settled public opinion" is hardly likely to want reversed. His decision means that under the new law the person who wins a sweepstake is practically immune from attack by the Crown, for only the Attorney-General can take action. Under the old provision, anybody could assume the role of "common informer" and press the case.

WHAT SCIENCE HAS DONE

BECAUSE THE TRIUMPHS OF APPLIED science have made us marvellously productive, but have left us unable to make full use of the things we produce, many people have jumped to the conclusion that it is science itself that is at fault.

We hear, periodically, demands that science "declare a holiday;" that new inventions, discoveries and research generally be held in abeyance until the race has had time to catch up with its own cleverness.

One of the best answers to this demand comes from Sir James Jeans, famous British astronomer and physicist. Addressing a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in Aberdeen, Sir James declared himself as follows:

> Scientific knowledge is transmitted from one generation to another, while acquired characteristics are not. Thus, in respect to knowledge, each generation stands on the shoulders of its predecessor, but in respect to human nature both stand on the same ground.
> These are hard facts which we cannot help or alter and which—we may as well admit it—may wreck civilization. If there is an avenue of escape, it does not, as I see it, lie in the direction of less science but of more science.

It is one of the ironies of existence that the achievements of science are two-edged tools. The discovery of vast sources of physical power makes it possible for us to do an enormous amount of work with far less effort than our grandfathers had to use; but it also makes it possible for us to blow ourselves out of existence, and if we indulge in another world war we may do precisely that.

Scientific agriculture has enabled us to rid ourselves of the old fear that the earth's population would grow faster than its food supplies; but it has also robbed the farmer of his old independence and left tons of food to rot on the ground while city people go hungry.

Machine power has taken the drudgery from the worker's routine—but it has also, in some millions of cases, taken away his job and left him without the means of existence.

But the remedy for these things is not to lock science up in a dark closet and turn the clock back to 1800. Our only salvation is to learn how to use these scientific tools sensibly. If we do we can make human life much happier than it has ever been before.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

A SINISTER HERITAGE
La Presse, Montreal

Dr. Alphonse Lessard, president of the Canadian Public Health Association, does not exaggerate at all when he declares that the present economic crisis will surely leave a heavy heritage to the hygienists. It is impossible that the physical privations and the moral sufferings caused by the disarrangement of business and, above all, unemployment for the past three years, should not have undermined the vitality of our population. To repair this damage our professional hygienists and philanthropists must go into the breach and multiply their efforts more than evevr. And in order that their action should be more efficacious they must prepare and concern themselves with a common programme, founded on experience gathered during the crisis in different parts of the Dominion.

A THOUGHT

And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.—St. Matthew xxiii 12.

The sufficiency of my merit is to know that my merit is not sufficient.—St. Augustine.

Loose Ends

Dean Inge finds our women rather revolting—as they will probably find Dean Inge—the weather is vindicated at last in an obscure fashion and we are found to inhabit an ancient colony.

By H. B. W.

VICTORIAN

DEAN INGE has written, on the eve of his retirement from active life, a sort of farewell to a sad world. It is full of digs at our boasted modern life, for the Dean is sure that he would have been much happier if he had chosen to live fifty years earlier, say from 1810 to 1885.

Among other things he deplores the decline of patriotism, the decline of art and letters, and the decline of women. "Another unpleasant sign of barbarization," he observes, with an unerring discernment, "is the sight of young women with splashes of crude red on their lips and nails. To my eyes, this is as repulsive as the similarly tinted patch which adorns the stern of a baboon," a remark which seems to me a rather cruel and unworthy comment on the women of the entire western world, including even Victoria. I mean, after this, one will never see a prettily-tinted face on our streets without remembering the Dean's powerful simile.

After remarking that "As for our empire, I suppose it is really doomed," the Dean describes the advantages of England's great age, the nineteenth century. And even though he admits that the present age is better for the average man, he evidently thinks that he and the rest of us made a fatal mistake in getting ourselves born so late in history, in an era which doesn't know where it is going, in which there is no security in anything, when there seem to be no great men left in the world.

BAD EGGS

THERE IS a sweet nostalgia about the great Dean's farewell to the world which anyone can understand. The solid, secure Victorian age appears attractive indeed to men who are swamped by the fierce tides of our century. But this is what the Dean and the Victorians generally overlook—it was the Victorian age which was directly responsible for the shocks and stresses of our century. You would think, to hear the Victorians talk, that we had evolved by ourselves and created our own problems without any help from them. Alas, that calm Victorian age, which seemed so safe and secure and unchanging, was secretly hatching out the eggs of all our modern troubles. It was secure and safe and solid—but only because it died before its own eggs had been fully hatched out.

It was the Victorian age which gave us the machine without the capacity to handle it, but happily died before the machine had become troublesome. It was the Victorian age which developed modern armaments but left before they could be used on a large scale. It was the Victorian age which developed our economic system, and died happily without realizing what it had started, or that all its best theories would collapse within two generations.

It is all very well for Victorians, like Dean Inge in London and the others in Victoria, B.C., to brag about the Victorian age. Probably it was pretty cosy while it lasted, but look what it left behind. Look what an ancestor it turned out to be.

NO CHANCE

I SUPPOSE THAT at least a tenth of a Victorian's waking hours and about a quarter of his conversation are devoted to the weather. And most of this is used to deplore the fact that the weather is getting worse every year and to assert repeatedly that it was a great deal better last year.

I have always questioned this theory, but up to to-day I had no means of confirming or denying it. To-day I happened to be passing the post office in the Parliament Buildings. There Postmaster Fred Maynard keeps a large ledger to record the letters passing through, and each day for years, possibly for centuries, he was noted down at the head of his ledger the condition of the weather. I daresay that is the most accurate and complete record of our weather in existence and, being in non-technical terms, much more easily understood than the technical pronouncements of the weather bureaus.

If you will go over Mr. Maynard's ledger and his penciled notes, which he has kept merely for his own amusement, you will find that our weather hasn't changed. It stays the same year after year, but the people change. They get old and imagine everything was better a little while ago. If you will take any day this year and compare it with the same day a year ago, you will be amazed at the similarity of the weather. It seems to duplicate itself with uncanny precision, almost to the day. And if you go back for years, the same rule holds good.

After this I shall entertain no further complaints about the changing climate. But fortunately no one will agree with me. Fortunately the public will always find a universal subject which all people can discuss and understand. This is a wise dispensation of Providence, for obviously all the other subjects of universal discussion, like the depression, the crisis and the future, aren't understood by anybody. It is just as well Mr. Maynard's book is kept private or there would be nothing interesting and understandable left to talk about at all.

LOST TRIBES

SOME FRENCH scientists have gone down to Easter Island to study the curious stone monuments that lie in the jungle there and to find out, if possible, what civilization carved them. The lost civilization of the Pacific is the scientific rage at the moment, and it seems that we on our own island have a direct connection with it. A fellow named James Churchward spent a lifetime in such investigations and has lately published a series of books that prove to any reasonable person's satisfaction that there used to be a vast continent in the middle of the Pacific, called Mu by the inhabitants, and it produced a high civilization ten thousand years before Egypt and Sumeria. The people of Mu—and here is where we come in—colonized the shores of North and South America as well as Asia, and some of their sacred signs are to be found among our Nootka and Kootenay Indians.

I merely point this out to make you feel a little humble. I mean, when you get too vainglorious thinking that we are an outpost of a great civilization on this island, that we were the first to bring culture to the poor natives of these parts, remember that the civilization of Mu had swept over here long before the British race was dreamed of.

Remember, when you see some poor Indian woman selling baskets, that she is the descendant of a civilization much older and, from all accounts, much abler and more humane than ours.

Remember also, when you glory in our civilization and become too proud of our triumphant economics and serene life, that the great land of Mu suddenly slipped under the sea one day, leaving only Easter Island and a few spots like that to mark its grave.

If our island doesn't go under some day, as it probably will, it is fascinating to speculate, as I have done here before, on the reactions of those future civilizations that try to decipher our monuments. All they will find in Victoria, I suppose, are a few stones out of the Parliament Buildings and perhaps a few files of newspapers preserved in some concrete vault.

But for all their trouble, after they have deciphered our language, after they have read our newspapers and examined the statutes of the British Columbia Legislature, they will still wonder what we were driving at. Alas, they will never know that we wondered equally and could never find the answer.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THIS FAITH

I do not know whence comes this faith
In better days to be,
Which is as though a kind voice speaks
Sweet words to comfort me.
Its roots go down so far, so deep
Into the heart of things. . . .
How am I sure that after snow
Will come the bluebird's wings?
I only know that Good supreme
Must rule, and, soon or late,
The love, the light, the joy will come
For which, to-day, I wait.
This faith is like a great pine tree
Whose roots my soul must house,
While all the winds of living sing
Among its lofty boughs.

RING CHAMPS SUSPENDED

Maxie Rosenbloom and Midget Wolgast Dethroned By National Boxing Assn.

Toronto, Sept. 18. — Toronto yesterday evening was ring capital of the continent with the presence here of delegates to the meetings of the National Boxing Association and the National Wrestling Association. Delegates were in attendance from fifteen American states and the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Feature of the day's activities was the suspension of two world champion boxers, Max Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight, and Midget Wolgast, flyweight.

In regard to the previous suspension of Panama Al Brown, President Edward Foster, of the B.N.A., recommended a tournament in Montreal to fill the vacancy.

Depriving Rosenbloom of his title, the convention criticized his "clowning tactics." The association dethroned Wolgast for his alleged assault on an army veteran. In the same class Jackie Brown stood suspended for actions in a recent fight in England.

Tip-Top Tonic

"Kilmartin Kennels,"
Victoria, B.C.

Dear Sirs:

Some time ago a prominent breeder recommended Nu Life Tonic to me, and having just received a new stud dog which arrived in poor condition, I gave this dog a course of your tonic. The results have been wonderful, and everyone says he looks a different dog, in health, coat and spirit, so I can truly say the mixture is a "Tip-top Tonic."

Yours faithfully,
ALEC McCLOY.

For Sale at MacFarlane's., Hudson's, Spencer's, Hillside Drug, and Suddaby's, Duncan.

HEIRESS WEDS HITCH-HIKER

Virginia Gates Bride of Dan McCafferty, Formerly of Vancouver

Associated Press

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 18.—Virginia Gates McCafferty, twenty-two, nee Virginia Gates, Philadelphia heiress, who hitch-hiked her way to romance and marriage with Dan McCafferty, erstwhile boxer, wrestler, mechanic and vegetable field worker, was "California bound" with her husband last night fortified with funds supplied by her wealthy father.

The young couple said they planned to leave Boise "by train," using money telegraphed to them by Thomas Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania and a former member of the firm of J. P. Morgan and Company.

Along with this revelation of their immediate plans came an assertion from the newlyweds that their marriage last Thursday was the culmination of a romance that began with a meeting a year ago.

The blonde, blue-eyed bride and her dark, curly-haired husband previously had said they met by accident in Boise and had hitch-hiked to Moscow, the seat of the state university, where they were married.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 18.—Dan McCafferty, who with his bride of four days, the former Virginia Gates, Philadelphia heiress, was reported en route to California last night, was born in Robinson County, Illinois, twenty-five years ago, relatives here said.

The family moved to Swift Current, Sask., in 1912, where they lived until coming here several years ago.

Dan left Saskatchewan about six years ago for the United States, where he has since lived.

Clarke in Holy Trinity Church, and both bride and groom were unattended.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. F. W. Cunningham, the bride wore a lovely gown of heavy faille silk in a deep shade of brown, relieved with tiny brilliant buttons on the bodice. Her matching velvet hat was in the new beret fashion with a smart brilliant ornamet, and her accessories were in the same rich tone. She carried a tiny colonial bouquet of gay Talisman rosebuds.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Beddis left for a motoring trip on Vancouver Island, before making their home at Ganges, Salt Spring Island.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES

FIRST UNITED Y.P.S.

The First United Sunday School Hall was the scene of a greatly enjoyed get together yesterday evening when the First United Y.P.S. held their opening meeting of the autumn season. The meeting was in the form of a social arranged by the social group leaders, Ken Simpson and Douglas Balfour.

Competitive games, including a nail driving contest, kept the crowd on their toes. Four humorous skits, entirely impromptu, were the source of much hilarity. The presentation of "Little Red Riding Hood" was acclaimed the most humorous. Rev. Dr. Wilson spoke briefly. He welcomed the new members and wished the society another successful year.

While refreshments were enjoyed, Miss Gertrude Nelson entertained at the piano with popular selections.

The new members were the Misses Helen Bruels, Eleanor Baran, Grace Parr, Evelyn Jones, Margaret King, Gertrude Nelson, Joan Marsh, "Bunny" Lawrence, Margaret Mitchell and Isabel Dickson; Messrs. Donald Brewster, Arthur Butcher, Ralph Dent, Doug. Hardisty, Don Taylor and George Dickson.

Next week a "Literary Night" will be held, at which Dean Quainton will be the guest speaker. A humorous debate, "Resolved That All Proposals of Marriage Should be Made by Women," will also be a feature of the evening.

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S.

The theme for yesterday evening's programme was "Holiday Echoes." The evening was opened by a sing-song, conducted by Rev. J. H. A. Warr. Tickets were issued for a holiday cruise. The first trip was conducted by Harry Bates, who outlined a trip up-island. This was followed by a solo by Eric Driver and a talk by Rev. W. R. Brown of the James Bay United Church in which visits to Glasgow, Edinburgh, London, Dublin and Paris were enjoyed. The beauties of the southern Pacific States were outlined by Miss Betty Jones, who conducted a literally scenic view of all places of interest.

The evening's tour came to a close with a review of the summer camp at Ocean Park, outside of Vancouver. The theme for next week is "A Man From South America."

Ruth Saunders conducted a short worship service which brought the evening to a close.

Won Tea Service.—The Paragon tea service, in the contest sponsored by the local association of Girl Guides at the provincial fair, was won by Miss Lenen, 944 Fairfield Road, who held the ticket numbered 1453.

I.O.D.E. OFFER SCHOLARSHIP

Applications For $1,400 Overseas Grant Must Be in By October 12

October 12 is the last date for receiving applications for the $1,400 post-graduate scholarship offered by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire for this province and tenable at any university in Great Britain.

Application blanks may be obtained from Miss A. B. Cooke, I.O.D.E. educational secretary for British Columbia, at 304 Jones Building, Victoria, to whom all applications must be sent not later than the date specified above.

VARIED SUBJECTS

Nine post-graduate scholarships—one in each province of the Dominion—are offered annually, to enable students to cary on studies at any university in the United Kingdom, in British and imperial history, the economics and government of the empire and Dominion, or any subject vital to the interest of the empire. These scholarships have been awarded not only for history, politics and economics, but also for such varied subjects as mathematics, forestry, law, French, English, classics, physics, chemistry, and other branches of pure and applied science. If the committee of selection so decide, the scholarship may be awarded for a second year to the same candidate, providing his or her record is satisfactory in comparison with the promise and record of other candidates. Reports of the work done during the tenure of the scholarship will be asked for.

Each scholarship is of the value of $1,400 a year. The payment will be made in three installments, payable at the London branch of the Dominion Bank, the first, ($600) on or after October 1, the second ($400) on or after December 1, and the third, ($400) on or after March 1. Payments will be made in sterling at the exchange of the day.

Scholarship-holders from the four western provinces may obtain, on application, help towards the price of the railway fare to the port of embarkation. Application should be made by April 1 to the provincial educational secretary. Similar assistance may be applied for, before returning to Canada, for the return journey; application should be made by the same date.

MUST RETURN TO CANADA

The order expects that all I.O.D.E. scholars will return to Canada and work there after the completion of their work in a British university. The order will give any assistance in its power to help a returned scholarship-holder to secure a position in Canada.

A committee of selection is appointed in each province, consisting of the three representatives of that province on the National War Memorial Committee, and two or more educational representatives chosen by the I.O.D.E. members of the committee.

The selection of a candidate will take place during October or early in November this year. The candidate selected must be prepared to begin his or her course in Great Britain in the autumn of 1935. The appointment is subject to cancellation at any time by the National Chapter, on recommendation of the War Memorial Committee, if the successful candidate does not continue to show fitness to hold the scholarship.

SUFFRAGIST IS NOW NINETY

Mrs. Despard, British Feminist Leader, Still Has Fighting Spirit

Canadian Press

London, Sept. 18.—Mrs. "Votes for Women" Despard, who was once one of Britain's most ardent suffragettes, is ninety years old. She celebrated her birthday not long ago and when an interviewer asked her if she was retiring from politics she said uncomprehendingly "Retiring? There is so much injustice in the world, I must go on. I will never retire.

"People think I am very frail but they are mistaken. I am feeling wonderfully well, and I think the reason is that I have always kept in touch with the world. It keeps you young," she said with a smile.

"True, the position of women has improved wonderfully since our struggle, but until women have equality with men in work and pay, the work of the suffragettes must go on. I look back on our struggle as the best time of my life. We found the spirit of adventure."

Mrs. Despard is the sister of the late Lord Ypres (formerly Sir John French). She went to prison several times for her suffragette agitations during the votes-for-women campaign.

YOUNG ASTORS HAVE PARTED

Former Ellen Tuck French Arrives in New York Alone After Quarrel

New York, Sept. 18.—The bride of John Jacob Astor Third was in New York yesterday with a denial of reports that she and her wealthy young husband had parted abruptly during a quarrel in Providence, R.I.

"A quarrel? It is absolutely ridiculous," said young Mrs. Astor, the former Ellen Tuck French, when she arrived in Grand Central Station Sunday night on a train from Providence. Obviously upset, she hurried to a waiting motor car.

"I came back because I'm going to be a bridesmaid at a wedding. Mr. Astor will come here to-day," she said.

The Daily News, however, says Astor and his bride of less than three months parted in the midst of a quarrel which started in the summer salon of the Providence Biltmore Hotel, continued in the lobby and wound up on the street.

LOUD EXCHANGE OF WORDS

There was a loud exchange of words, the newspaper says, as the couple sat at a table in the dining-room. Then the young bride left the table and started for the door, with Astor in pursuit. As they walked through the lobby Astor kept repeating, "No, no."

When they reached the street he turned to her and shouted: "No,—I won't," and ran up the street out of sight.

His bride went to the Astor car, parked outside the hotel, and hurried to the New Haven Railroad Station, just in time to board a train for New York. A girl companion went with her.

HONEYMOON SHORTENED

The Astors, says The News, have been dining at the Providence Biltmore on an average of three times a week, driving over from their home in Newport. They were married June 30, and started on what was to have been a six-months' wedding trip. They returned suddenly after two weeks.

Young Astor previously had been engaged to Eileen Gillespie, but the engagement ended with a quarrel. The incident was closed when Astor sent a signed apology to the parents of Miss Gillespie, who in turn sent back to him the $100,000 Empress Eugenie ring he had given their daughter.

DIVORCE APPEAL IS ADJOURNED

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Sept. 18.—Hearing of the main appeal in the McPherson divorce case by which Mrs. Cora McPherson, ex-wife of the ex-minister of public works, O. L. McPherson, seeks to upset the divorce obtained by her husband, claiming it was secured by collusion and connivance, has been adjourned until January 15.

Sitting in supreme court chambers here, Mr. Justice Mitchell granted a motion to adjourn the appeal until that date when the Alberta appeal court will decide on the judgment of Mr. Justice Ford, who dismissed the appeal against the divorce granted by Mr. Justice Tweedie.

The adjournment was sought to give priority for the hearing of an appeal before the Privy Council in London on a side issue of the case. In this, Mrs. Cora McPherson seeks to upset the divorce on the ground that the original action was heard in a closed court, contrary to law.

Mr. Justice Tweedie heard the case in the judge's library at the court house during the noon hour instead of a regular courtroom at a regular time.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

DECIDING ON HOSPITAL OR HOME DELIVERY

One of the first problems with which the prospective mother deals is concerned with her choice of either her home or a hospital for delivery. This is a question which of necessity must be solved by the mother. Her wisest decision can be made when she chooses without prejudice, either her own or that of other people, and in consultation with her own doctor.

She will want to know what hospitals can offer that will offset any advantages of the home. To this end she should make a visit to the hospital, look at the rooms, ask their prices. She should know what the hospital furnishes, how much they charge for the delivery room, for special nurses—in case she needs one—for drugs, and supplies and an anaesthetist.

There is no excuse for a mother blindly incurring expenses, or worrying about what they may be—since all of these can be outlined for her in advance.

LEARN DOCTOR'S FEE

The doctor's charge for his services are in addition to those of the hospital. She has a right to know this in advance. Most obstetricians have a fixed fee which includes nine months of service, the delivery and post-natal care.

Mothers may choose a home delivery with doctor and special nurse, or an undergraduate nurse, or they may choose a hospital delivery.

In the hospital they may have a private room and special nurse (her expenses are extra of course), a private or two-party room with hospital nurses giving necessary services, or a bed in a ward.

The timidity of young mothers is to be deprecated. Many of them avoid going to a doctor so long as they "feel" all right, because they are ignorant of a doctor's charges and are afraid to ask.

AVOID CHILDISH ATTITUDES

This is so silly and childish an emotion that it should be stifled by any woman who considers herself old enough to be bearing a child. Her duty is to bring a healthy baby into the world and to give herself the benefits of the best care, the best feeding, the best obstetrical attention that science has devised for her.

The positive requirements for herself and the baby cannot be given her by anyone but a hospital employee. Each hospital has its own rules and regulations. Our leaflet on "Pre-natal Care" suggests the usual garments the mother will need to take for herself and the baby.

This leaflet, which also contains the advice covering the ordinary conditions to be met with at this time, and a list of garments for the baby, is to be had for only a self-addressed, stamped envelope sent to this department along with the request for it.

What One Girl Wore

By BETTY BROWNLEE

Accessories for fall wear: Top, a charming new beret of brown velvet banded with grosgrain and worn with a matching scarf; centre, new gloves of beige kid trimmed with three narrow stripes of brown piping and four brass balls. Below: A dressy bag of brown velvet shirred over the frame and fastened with a clasp of brown enamel.

Now that it is time to replenish the wardrobe with new frocks and ensembles to meet the coming season, we find ourselves thinking about accessories to harmonize with our new clothes. You know, of course, how important accessories are—they can do so much to make the costume perfect, and so much to spoil the entire effect. They must be chosen wisely. It is possible, too, to have one set of accessories that will be effective with two or three costumes—stretching the budget so that it goes further for some other necessity.

Velvet is always a favored fall and winter fabric and it returns to win new popularity this fall. One of the Paris favorites in millinery, we hear, is the beret—and the smartest type of beret is about twelve inches in diameter. The model shown to-day is of this type and is fashioned of brown velvet banded with grosgrain. With it there is a matching scarf. Scarf and beret will look well with either tan or brown costumes, and very striking with green.

The beige kid slip-on gloves dressed up with narrow pipings of brown kid and four brass ball buttons are very effective—and can be used with any number of costumes.

And, lastly, there is a lovely afternoon bag of brown velvet with a brown enamel clasp, outlined in gold and trimmed with a gold button, that you will find useful as well as ornamental.

YOUNG COUPLE BUDGET RIGIDLY

New York, Sept. 18.—A young couple (he works in Wall Street) have been trying valiantly to keep a properly business-like budget of expenses.

Bridge losses are chalked up to education, liquor bills to charity. The cost of entertaining a visiting wealthy aunt was charged to insurance.

Recently the problem came up of where to enter an appropriation for two new dresses which she had bought for a visit to his employer's country estate. Finally they put it under "advertising and promotion."

WEEK'S MENUS PLANNED IN ADVANCE AID SAVINGS

By MARY E. DAGUE

Here we are, summer gone, the children in school again, winter coming on—and the usual three square meals a day to plan! The season may change the items on the menu—it never gives the housewife a let-up in her daily planning chore.

Well, since we must, let's think about breakfast, dinner and supper. First of all, don't make the mistake of letting your meals grow winterish before they need. Keep fresh fruit and vegetables in star roles as long as possible.

As long as possible, let fresh fruits and vegetables hold first place in the daily fare. Substitute canned vegetables for fresh, if necessary, but see that your children have them to keep their diet well-balanced.

ADD COURSES FOR ADULTS

Menus planned for growing children should be simple. Then for adults, add one or two courses. A soup, canned or home-made, or a salad of fresh fruits or vegetables, will do wonders to dress up a plain meal. Or the addition of home-made relishes or conserves, garnishes or hot baking powder biscuits will furbish up an everyday menu.

There's an advantage to planning a week's menus in advance. The method saves money, time and labor—checks a tendency toward extravagant marketing and does away with that frantic daily worrying about what to have.

And, of course, it makes using up leftovers into a game. A meat pie, timbales, hash or croquettes are planned to take care of the leftovers from a roast. Bread pudding, bread crumb pancakes or a "mock-duck" take care of the week's accumulation of stale bread and crumbs. A jellied salad in the middle of the week makes use of the odds and ends of fruits and vegetables.

Many of the commodities that were purchased in small quantities during warm weather now can be bought in larger amounts without danger of spoilage and waste, and a saving is effected in this way. Watch the markets for bargains to take advantage of special prices made possible by quantity buying.

Study the brands of all the various foodstuffs on the market and find the one that meets your needs and tastes.

Make the most of every food you serve by attractive garnishing and serving. Simple foods perfectly prepared and served are far more appetizing than elaborate, out-of-season foods haphazardly cooked and put on the table.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast—Grape, cereal, cream, bread crumb pancakes, honey, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked vegetable hash, lettuce and egg sandwiches, peach cottage pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Rolled flank of beef, ten-minute cabbage, banana and peanut salad, baking powder biscuit with fresh grape conserve, apple tapioca pudding, milk, coffee.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

© 1933 NEA Service, Inc.

As she dressed the baby for the homeward trip she thought of her father's words and her heart lightened insensibly. Besides, the weeks she had just lived through had given her a new sense of values. The hovering wings of the Black Angel had come close to her. You forget petty things—unimportant things—in that dread shadow.

She and Tom would make a fresh start when she went back to the apartment. She would try to be different; she wouldn't let everything bother her.

Clytie helped her down to the taxi. From the window above she could see her mother waving. Her mother, thin, valiant, frail.

"Take care of her," Gypsy told the old colored woman. "Take care of them both."

Clytie said yes, she would. They'd be all right, she told Gypsy. Mist' Morell, he was a fine man; praise God they hadn't lost him.

It was a warm, languorous day in May. Shrubs were bursting into bloom all along the wide pleasant streets. The black hedges showed a tracing of green wherever you looked. Gypsy felt a singing in her heart. Maybe it was spring, maybe it was going back to her own man and her own hearth that gave her a sense of fresh beginnings.

"I'm going to be different," she promised. "I'm going to make my marriage go if it's the only thing I ever do in this world."

Back in the embattled city across the river, toward whose towers and minarets the train now hurled itself, a blonde girl sat in a shining office and stared out over the roofs.

"I'm mad about him," she muttered to herself as she glimpsed Tom Weaver's profile through the glass partition. "I'm mad about him and I'm going to do something about it."

CHAPTER XXXVI

Elsa came back to work on her old schedule and, with the suddenness of a butterfly released from its nest, Gypsy began to rush about whenever she was free. David was in good hands when Elsa was present. He and the clumsy but gentle-fingered maid understood each other and Gypsy could play with an easy mind. This was what she needed, she told herself, what she had been wanting.

She had known a gay, irresponsible crowd in her pre-marital days. She went back to them now. She went to cocktail parties in Greenwich Village, exhibitions of modern paintings, motion picture showings to the inner circle. She bought some new clothes and had a new, daring hair cut. In many ways she was the gay, pleasure loving girl she had been before her marriage. She laughed a great deal. She had begun to learn the newest dancing steps. The telephone rang often these days and she would sit, drumming her fingers, trying to decide whether or not she could make that particular tea or whether Elsa could be persuaded to stay late again.

Tom said he approved of the change, although sometimes you caught a puzzled light in his eyes. This chameleon, this flushed, dark-haired young person in the well-cut grey suit was curiously unlike the discouraged, pallid girl who had complained last winter of the routine of dishes, bottles and naps. Since Gypsy's return she hadn't said a single word about their old difficulties. She had behaved as though nothing had ever happened to disturb her placidity. He didn't quite understand the change but he was grateful for it.

Manlike, he was interested in and attracted by the transformation. Of course Gypsy was his girl—his wife—no matter how she looked nor what she did to herself. But, although he approved her gayety and spirit in theory, sometimes he missed the old Gypsy with her serious talk of budgets and cheap cuts and her adorable frown over the laundry list. This girl was far too busy to bother with laundry lists. There were buttons missing from Tom's things nowadays and his brown socks had holes in the toes. Often he came home in the evening to find her still away and Elsa muttering over the pots and pans, anxious to put on her big shapeless hat and remove herself to that mysterious realm from which she would emerge the next working day.

Tom would be left to give David his bottle. Presently Gypsy would flash in with a gardenia at her throat and the scent of cigarettes clinging to her cool, fresh cheek.

"Sorry, darling. I had no idea it was so late. Ronny Burgess had a Russian violinist and it was so thrilling!"

She would tie a big apron over her sheer black frock with its frilly collar. Smiling still over the afternoon she would serve Tom cold ham and potato chips and salad. She seldom bothered to cook much now. For one thing, the weather was growing warmer. For another, she hadn't the time and Elsa was a most indifferent chef. Besides Tom didn't care. He used to be bored, she thought now, with all those fancy messes she had prepared for him. That was a little bride stuff! Well, she had got bravely over the phase.

It was thrilling—it was exhilarating to be received back into the old circle as an equal. At first people had openly patronized her. "How's the baby?" they had asked negligently. "How's motherhood?"

But they had got past that now. She was one of them. She had even joined a class in sculpture, one that met Tuesday afternoons, and it was, she said, "inspiring."

It was queer but the prospect of spending the summer in the apartment didn't daunt her now. Last year she had been unable to bear the very notion. But that had been because of her condition. She felt strong now and it was fun to be within reach of things. Why, if she moved to the suburbs she would miss out on all the invitations she now accepted so eagerly. No one would remember her if she buried herself in some little house on a side road.

When Tom said something about trying to find a place on the island she smiled and shook her head. "Don't bother, darling. We'll be all right. I don't mind the city any more. Besides, everyone says we're going to have a cool summer."

More often than not Gypsy encountered Hunt Gibson at these festivities. Hunt was very much the young-man-about-town at the moment and he had met these people through Sue Canavan. The more Gypsy saw of him the better she liked him. He was always so amusing. He had a grand sense of humor. You saw him on the avenue these days, broad shoulders set off to advantage by his well fitting British clothes. He swung a stick. Girls riding on the tops of buses craned their necks to see him. "Oh," they said, "Isn't he like Gary Cooper?"

He would offer Gypsy a lift uptown as they left the Eighth Street studio—Ronny's or Elspeth Harris's place on Barrow Street.

"Coming my way?" he would say, smiling.

Gypsy would waver. "I was going to stop at the French pastry shop on Sixth and get some brioche for breakfast."

"Well, come along. The taxi can wait, can't it?"

It was fun; it was all fun. To play at being a girl again, to pretend for a little while there were no responsibilities, no worries. Of course you always went home to the baby and Tom with a thankful feeling. It was wonderful, back of all this playing and laughing and chatting, to feel that your life was secure, settled. Just the same, the dash of freedom made Gypsy rounder, rosier, prettier than she had been in years.

She looked about her at the people she knew, the completely unfettered ones, and found that she did not envy them. Elspeth was thin, haggard, nervous, at twenty-nine; in love with a married man from Park Avenue. Ronny had been married and divorced, and so had Willa Burns and one or two of the other girls. None of them had children. She would rush into the apartment after an afternoon punctuated by frenzied chatter, scented with cigarette smoke and the dregs of a cocktail shaker. She would bury her face in the pink warmth and sweetness of David's baby neck.

"Was he good, Elsa?"

"Oh, sure, he fine," Elsa would wriggle out of her apron.

"Take his carrots all right?"

"Ya, he eat um all up."

"Well, now I've got to settle down to business." She would hum a dance tune, looking abstractedly into the icebox. Asparagus and cold lamb and a salad; Tom would like that. She wasn't hungry. Those pate sandwiches had been so good. . . . .

The door would slam. Tom would be in the doorway. "Hello, darling!"

She would smile at him in the old welcoming way and he would fold her in his long arms.

"Been painting the town again?"

"Yes. Oh, I must tell you, Ronny has the most marvelous idea. . . ." She would talk eagerly all through dinner and would not notice particularly if he were responsive.

"Don't you think so?"

"Umm . . . ." Tom would stare at her, that puzzled small-boy expression on his face again. "Fraid I didn't hear what you said, darling."

But all this did not dash her spirits as once it would have done. She would pat his shoulder gently. Poor Tommy, he was all tired out these nights from that hard old job!

One night he slapped the newspaper down beside her. It was folded neatly back to a pencilled item.

"What on earth?" Gypsy picked it up, stared at it.

She paled a trifle. Almost it was like a bad omen. "Lila's got her divorce!"

"Yep." Tom rubbed his forehead reflectively. "I wonder it lasted that long. He was a good guy, too."

"Oh, marvelous," Gypsy assented absently.

"What happened?"

"I don't . . . ." she flushed over the words. "I don't know."

"Well, I think it's a rotten deal for Bliss anyway." Tom offered bluntly. "He deserved a better break."

SPECIAL MIKES USED FOR RACE

New and Compact Equipment Allows More Extensive Coverage of Feature Events Such as America's Cup Races

The new "50-A" microphones, latest development to improve the pick-up of broadcasts outside the studios, are being used for the first time by the NBC corps of announcers as they describe the thrills of the America's Cup yacht races from coastguard cutters off Nantucket.

Slightly larger than a baseball, the new "50-A" microphones mark another engineering victory in broadcasting, combining features of both the ribbon and dynamic type microphone. Not only are they more sensitive than any microphones used heretofore for pick-ups outside the studios, but also because of their compactness they will allow announcers more freedom of motion when covering outdoor events.

As a result, NBC audiences from now on, will get more of the background atmosphere and color of special broadcasts, as well as more first-hand details, due to the ability of announcers to move the new equipment quickly to any part of the scene of action.

Fred Gade, Rod Stevens and Roger McAdam, noted yachting authorities, together with William Lundell and Ben Grauer, NBC announcers, are bringing to NBC audiences the details of the Endeavour-Rainbow races. Equipped with the new cup-shaped microphones, which can be held in the palm of the hand, they describe the sailing contests in broadcasts each day from cutters keeping abreast of the racing yachts.

The broadcasts are heard over stations KGO and KOMO each morning at 7.15 and 11.30 o'clock, Victoria time, and at indefinite intervals as the races progress.

Uncle Wiggily's Long Chase

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily had taken a basket of cute little apple pies to make a party for the animal children in the Hollow Stump School. But while waiting under a tree for the school recess, the rabbit gentleman fell asleep. When he awakened the basket of pies was gone.

"Some one came along while I was asleep and took the pies!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I wonder who could be so mean?"

It did not take him long to find out, for just then, over his head in the air, he heard the sound of swishing wings and a harsh voice laughed: "Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Looking up, Uncle Wiggily saw a big black crow bird flying along with the basket of pies in his beak. Because the basket was so heavy the crow could not fly very fast nor very high.

"I think I can catch him!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll chase after him." So saying, the rabbit gentleman hopped up and chased the crow. Looking down over the edge of the basket that he carried in his beak, the black crow bird hoarsely cawed and said:

PIES FOR LITTLE CROWS

"You can't catch me, Uncle Wiggily! I'm going to take these pies to my little crow birds in my nest. They are very fond of pie. My little crows will have a party with them! And there is no use in your chasing me."

"It may be a long chase!" panted Mr. Longears, "but I'll catch you at last and get those pies back."

"No you won't!" boasted the crow.

So the chase kept up, the big black crow with the basket of pies in his beak flapping his wings and Uncle Wiggily making his legs go very fast to catch the naughty bird.

"Though how I am ever going to catch him I don't know," thought poor Uncle Wiggily, as the chase led over the fields, up hill and down hill and through the woods. "I can't get up in the air to take the basket away from that crow. But if he gets tired and has to land like an airplane then I can rush up to him and get the basket."

Now about this time Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig gentleman, who had made a big kite for one of his boy pigs named Floppy, waddled out to try the paper toy and see how it would fly. It was the kind of kite with a tail. Mr. Twistytail had made the kite so well that it was soon flying in the air and it was bobbing about in the wind when Uncle Wiggily hopped along chasing the crow.

TELL MR. TWISTYTAIL

"Hello, Wiggy!" grunted the pig gentleman, holding the kite string. "Why are you hopping so fast?"

"I'm chasing that crow who took the basket of pies I was going to take to school to make a party for the children," said the rabbit. "Look at him, flying along with my pies. How can I get at him to take them away?"

"Leave it to me!" grunted the pig. "I'll get that basket of pies."

"Ha! Ha! Ha!", laughed the black bird. "You can't do it! Ha! Ha!"

Suddenly Mr. Twistytail pulled on the kite string. The kite went down and the tail of it tangle around the handle of the basket.

"Now watch!" cried Mr. Twistytail. With that he pulled harder at the kite cord and the basket was snatched from the crow's beak and away it went in the air, dangling from the tail of the kite.

"Oh, how clever!" cried Uncle Wiggily, joyfully. "Now if the basket doesn't turn over and spill the pies, we're all right."

"It won't turn over," grunted the pig. It didn't. Anyhow the cover was on tight. And as the crow, dismally cawing, flew away, Mr. Twistytail pulled down his kite and the basket of pies fastened to it and not one was smashed.

"Hurray!" cried Uncle Wiggily. Then he hopped to the school with the treat and arrived just in time to make a recess party for the children and Miss Mouse. And if the shoe horn will play a tune for the bedroom slippers to dance, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Hitter's hat.

The first meeting of the season, following the summer vacation of the Royal Oak Women's Institute, was held in the institute hall Thursday afternoon, Miss K. Oldfield presiding. Miss Oldfield announced that the summer picnic held at Sooke was a great success, also the silver tea held at the home of Mrs. T. Hutchison in July. Thanks were tendered to Mrs. Hutchison and Miss Patsy Hutchison for the sale of candy in aid of the solarium, also to Mrs. McQueen for fortune telling, which helped to swell the funds.

Correspondence was read from Mrs. Oldfield, Department of Agriculture, Mrs. Braithwaite, Othos Scott Fund, Queen Alexandra Solarium X-ray Fund, and Federated Council of Youth,

Miss E. Phillips read the financial report.

A 500 card party was announced for September 27, an old-time box social dance for October 19 and a bazaar and country fair for November 7.

A report was read by Mrs. H. H. Reed from the Vancouver Island Horticulture Society.

The solarium jam shower will be held at the next meeting of the institute, October 11. Donations may be left at Prospect Lake and Royal Oak stores.

Congratulations were sent to Mrs. B. C. Gale on the occasion of her fortieth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Gardom was welcomed for tea and presented with a vase of flowers in appreciation of long years of service at the Health Centre.

Miss Oldfield and Mrs. Greive were tea hostesses, assisted by other ladies of the institute.

LAKE HILL CENTRE MARKS ANNIVERSARY NEXT MONTH

On Wednesday, October 3, the Lake Hill Community Centre will hold its first annual ball and frolic, commemorating the twelfth anniversary of its founding.

Len Acres's orchestra has been engaged for the occasion, spotlights are being installed and a varied programme of floor acts arranged. There will be serpentine dances, special prizes, and supper will be served.

Many people may not be aware of the extent of the activities of the centre, so a brief resume of its history may prove of interest.

On February 25, 1922, a number of prominent residents of the district assembled at the residence of W. E. Peirce, Borden Street, to discuss ways and means of building a hall as a centre of social activities.

After several such meetings and much discussion, the present site on North Quadra Street was purchased from the Municipality of Saanich. On March 25, 1922, at a meeting at the home of the late G. L. Service, the necessary documents of incorporation were signed by the officers elected at this meeting and forwarded to the registrar.

With the moral and financial support of the Lake Hill Women's Institute, and the residents of the district, a campaign was waged for funds, and a start was made in October, 1922, on the present entrance hall. This was a two-story building, kitchen facilities occupying the lower floor, and was completed and officially opened September 20, 1933, by the late Reeve Watson of Saanich.

In this small hall many concerts, card parties and dances were held the first winter, and a substantial addition to the funds attained.

In April and May, 1924, a May queen contest with four contestants was organized and a real drive put on for funds. The result was most gratifying—around $1,900 being realized.

Construction work then started on the main hall, a two-story structure adjoining the original small hall.

By hard work and constant organization of dances, concerts and country fairs, the hall was gradually completed, the inside panelling put in place and the lower floor put into use for kitchen, dining-room and dressing-room facilities, most of the actual labor being voluntarily donated by members of the Centre.

BOWLING CLUB FORMED

The aim has always been to sponsor sports of all kinds, and in October, 1926, a carpet bowling club was formed. This club still occupies half of the lower floor of the main hall, has three carpets and a large membership. In the Capital City and District Carpet Bowling League tournaments, Lake Hill has always been one of the highest ranking clubs, there seldom being a year when one or more Lake Hill rinks was not head of its division, and for the last three years in succession the coveted men's championship 'singles has gone to Lake Hill.

This winter the club will run its own affairs under very favorable terms from the centre, as there is no attempt made by the management to divorce the sports entirely.

On completion of the sale of the Lake Hill bus line by Saanich to the late J. S. H. Matson, the profits from operation and sale of the service were put into park and recreation facilities for residents of the district, as these residents had guaranteed Saanich against loss in the operation of the service. A portion was devoted to providing a first-class bowling green on Reynolds Street, and on completion in July, 1930, was turned over to the Lake Hill Community Centre for a nominal yearly rental. A lawn bowling club was then formed and sponsored by the centre. A club house was built, and last year one string of lights was installed over the green. The membership has increased steadily, till this year the lawn bowling club is operating its own affairs, but still has use of the facilities of the centre on the same favorable terms as the other affiliated sports.

GYMNASIUM ADDED

In December, 1929, the contract was let for a large gymnasium, adjoining and back of the main hall. Here basketball, under the management of Walter Peddle, who has given unstintingly of his time and money to the game, has been encouraged and developed to a high degree of success, the Lake Hill teams the last two years having the following wins to their credit: 1932-33, Tolmie Cup for seniors; Women's Institute Cup for girls' team; B.C. Electric Cup for intermediates; the Pendray playoff Cup; 1933-34: West Road Cup and Inspector Owen Cup for Juniors.

In May, 1928, two lots were purchased from Saanich, close behind the hall, on Lodge Avenue, for the building of tennis courts. These have not yet been completed, but it is hoped to see a large flourishing club operating on grass courts on these lots as soon as conditions permit. A tennis club did function for a few years on rented courts.

On nights not occupied by basketball, the badminton club uses the gymnasium, so that from October till April there is never a night that the gymnasium is not in use.

HIVE OF ACTIVITY

With card parties each Monday, a popular modern dance each Wednesday, an old-time dance each Saturday in the main hall, and five nights' use a week of the lower main floor by the carpet bowlers, it can be realized that the centre is a veritable hive of activity during the winter months, and a very distinct asset to the community.

The centre is operated by a board of six, elected at the annual meeting every January, consisting of a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and three directors.

The original board of the centre in 1922 was: President, W. E. Peirce; vice-president, J. Scott; recording secretary H. A. Laycock; financial secretary, A. R. Lowe, and treasurer, Mrs. G. L. Service. Later, the offices of the secretaries and treasurer were merged into one, and the board increased to six in number by electing three additional directors at the annual meetings.

For 1934 the following constitute the board of management: President, T. W. Palmer; vice-president, A. F. Mitchell; secretary-treasurer, O. J. Williams, with A. McCallum, T. F. Currie and W. E. Peirce, directors. It will be noted that the first president of the centre, W. E. Peirce, is still a member of the board.

A social committee, of which Mrs. T. F. Currie is the present convener, is a hard-working and efficient organization, and were it not for their untiring efforts and hard work the centre could not have reached its present high state of usefulness.

REGULAR MEETINGS

A meeting, open to all members of the centre, is held every month in the hall, to cope with any new business that arises, while board meetings are held at more frequent intervals to discuss matters of interest and to make recommendations to be passed on at the monthly meetings.

As it stands at present, the Lake Hill Community Centre represents an investment of at least $8,000, not including an immense amount of voluntary labor, all created through the original ideas and foresight of residents of the district.

Any history of the centre would be incomplete without special recognition of the part played by that sterling organization, the Lake Hill Women's Institute, which has always been one of the chief mainstays of the centre, the members of which have always given ungrudgingly of both their time and money to the furtherance of the cause. The Institute was organized about eleven years before the centre, and now has for its headquarters and meeting place the lower floor of the original hall.

TOURIST TRADE WILL BE AIDED

Lifting of Restrictions Welcomed By Publicity Bureau

Easing up of Customs' regulations regarding equipment tourists wish to bring into Canada was noted to-day as another indication that the Dominion Government desires to help build up travel business.

"The government has shown that it is taking an active interest in the details of the tourist trade," said George I. Warren, Victoria and Island publicity commissioner, in commenting upon a recent Ottawa dispatch stating that in future tourists will be permitted to bring in without restrictions a specified number of cigars and cigarettes, and may bring in, without posting a deposit, such articles as radios, typewriters, canoes, tents and camp equipment.

The concessions secured, Mr. Warren believed, were to a large extent due to the work of the Canadian Tourist Bureau, through which the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau and similar organizations throughout Canada work.

The Victoria Bureau, Mr. Warren pointed out, has frequently made recommendations for restrictions to be lifted along the lines mentioned in the Ottawa dispatch. It also keeps in constant touch with officials handling tourist travel headed for Victoria, with a view of securing co-operation from those officials to make entry of tourists to Vancouver Island as smooth as possible.

"If only the middle-aged and elderly men who are managing or mismanaging the affairs of the world to-day were sincerely inspired by the spirit of the Boy Scout Movement, how much better the world would be, how much happier and more prosperous the lot of mankind," said Sir Ernest Bennett, M.P., at Cardiff, in a recent speech.

The small auxiliary sloop the White Star, with a crew of fifteen Sea Scouts, three Rover Sea Scouts and two Sea Scouters, of the First Brighton Scout Group, England, made an extended cruise this summer, combining pleasure and publicity for Sea Scouting. 10,000 Hands to Serve You..

In the Way You Want to be Served

WE believe that the most natural way in the world to make loyal customers of motorists is to make sure we keep them satisfied AFTER they buy our cars.

And that is what General Motors has endeavored to do through all its twenty-seven years.

We have built up Canada's largest chain of dealer garages and authorized service stations—equipped to service all makes of cars, promptly, efficiently and at low prices.

We have established eight great Parts Depots throughout the Dominion—so that, no matter where you live, you can obtain genuine General Motors Parts within twenty-four hours at least.

We endeavor to keep our entire service organization abreast of the latest technical developments and shop methods—conducting service schools at our factories, and sending expert instructors into remote parts of the country.

We have set up liberal new car warranties, Owner Service Policies and Lubrication Plans—all designed to guard your new General Motors car through the "breaking-in" period, and to insure long life.

And by no means least, we keep constantly in touch with Canadian motorists themselves—through our annual Customer Questionnaires—to keep our Service, as well as our cars and trucks, in tune with your desires.

All General Motors cars and trucks may be purchased on convenient terms through GMAC, General Motors' own time-payment plan.

PENSIONERS OPEN DRIVE

Ex-servicemen Entitled to Membership in Association Urged to Join

Opening a campaign for membership in the Canadian Pensioners' Association among those ex-servicemen entitled to belong to the organization, M. C. McPhail, president of the Victoria branch, has issued a general statement on the origination and objectives as well as some of the activities of the association.

His outline is as follows:

"The Canadian Pensioners' Association was first formed to bring together for their own benefit, all those ex-service members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who were in receipt of a pension from the Canadian government, for wounds or illness incurred while in active service. Under the constitution any British subject of good character who had been domiciled in Canada prior to 1914, and was in receipt of, or entitled to a pension from the Canadian government for a disability incurred on a active front, might become a member, and to act solely as a non-political, non-partizan and non-sectarian organization.

"The chief object of this association is to take up adjustment of pensions, treatment of disabilities, hospitalization and to safeguard the welfare of widows and other dependents of those who died in the service of their country. For four years the association grew slowly while the officers adhered strictly to the constitution regarding membership, and stayed aloof from the many disputes then common between and in veterans organizations.

"In 1925, incorporation under a Dominion charter was sought and granted by the Secretary of State. Since then the association has grown steadily in membership and influence, while numerous branches have been organized throughout the Dominion.

AID GIVEN

"Several thousand cases have been successfully adjusted by the adjustment officers in which entitlement or increase assessment was secured. Over $750,000 has been paid to claimants in the way of retroactive pensions, increase, etc., through the service of this association. This has been accomplished without charge of any kind being made. All our officers have worked voluntarily, giving service gratis, to help those who were not getting what they were justly entitled to.

"The Victoria branch of this association has existed entirely on the proceeds from entertainments, dues and donations from friends of the association. In most branches, the dues are $3 per year. In this branch, dues are only $2 per year.

CO-OPERATION

"We co-operate fully with all other ex-service men's organizations in matter affecting the welfare of pensioners particularly, and ex-service men generally. Our representatives have attended in Ottawa at conferences with other organizations. On every occasion some matter of national importance to pensioners has come before the government, and we have been represented on the various courts of inquiry into the administration of the Pensions Act. By remaining an independent organization we have been able to concentrate on the needs of the disabled and refrain from becoming involved in any controversial matter.

"We are ever ready to co-operate in all affairs that affect the welfare of ex-service men and their dependents and perpetuate the sacrifices made by those who fell. Your duty to King and country was completed on discharge. Your duty to yourself, comrades of the Great War and dependents of those who died, still exists. To carry out this duty and cater to your special needs, i.e., the Sir Arthur Pearson Club for those blinded in the Great War, the Amputation Association for all amputation cases, the Pensioners' Association for the pensioners, the Legion and the Army and Navy Veterans are capable organizations to care for all other ex-service men."

SAXE POINT SITE TO BECOME PARK

On the written motion of Councillor Heald, seconded by Councillor Going, the Esquimalt Council at its meeting yesterday evening, decided to convert into a public park former Hudson's Bay property at Saxe Point, near the foot of Fraser Street, acquired at tax sale. For a considerable time the site has been used by numerous picnic parties and the news it will officially be converted into a park will meet with general approval.

Such an undertaking would not be expensive, Mr. Heald pointed out. The underbrush could be cleared and a ten-foot trail built around the shoreline. The municipal engineer will report on these matters, as well as on the cost of grading a fourteen-foot road to the grounds.

READ YOUR HEALTH IN THE PALM OF YOUR HAND

Stretch the hand out flat and look at the colouring which lies just beneath the outer skin. If you are in good health the flesh will be a mottled rosy pink. Should the pink tones appear pale, the probability is that your blood lacks haemoglobin (red colouring) and red corpuscles. Here is the reason why many people are not exactly well; some are really ill.

The blood carries life force and nutriment to every part of the body. If the blood is low in haemoglobin and red corpuscles, the person is more or less anaemic or "run-down" . . . easily tired . . . lacking in vitality . . . perhaps close to serious sickness.

Fortunately the vitality of the blood can be increased in the majority of cases, as was proved in a special clinic of 40 persons whose haemoglobin and red corpuscles were low. Under a physician's direction these patients took a 30-day treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Blood tests taken before and after treatment demonstrated conclusively in the physician's microscope how this excellent remedy had built up the vitality of the blood and restored health and vigour.

If your palm or your feelings tell you your blood is not up to normal, try a 30-day treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You, too, will probably experience the same pick-up in general health and the same gain in strength and vitality that the physician observed in the persons forming the clinic. Health is precious. Let Dr. Williams' Pink Pills help you keep it. This tested remedy has amply proved its restorative qualities. Full size box for 50c.

PRAISES WORK OF JAPANESE

Admiration For Pacific Neighbor Expressed By Rev. Dr. W. J. Sipprell

Canada should seek to break down all trade barriers with Japan and cultivate acquaintances with such a neighbor on a friendly footing, asserted Rev. W. J. Sipprell in an illustrated lecture on Japan yesterday evening in the Oak Bay United Church.

The speaker expressed great admiration for Japan, stating that of all the countries he had traveled in, including Syria, Palestine, China, United States, England and Canada, he had found the Japanese most affable to travel among.

He pointed out that during the depression years Japan was the only nation able to increase its foreign trade, demonstrating the high position she had reached commercially. The speaker felt that, other than the Old Country, Japan was the country to which Canada should pay most attention, being her nearest neighbor on the western side of the Pacific, possessing a population of 65,000,000 and being strong in military and naval resources, with a potential commercial market.

The Dominion, he continued, would be well advised not to set up trade barriers with a country that could retaliate so effectively as Japan.

He referred to Japan's remarkable progress of the last seventy-five years, claiming she had emerged from her position as a hermit among the nations to take a ranking post. She was one of Canada's best customers to-day, he said, taking $6,000,000 more in Canadian products than Canada took from her.

Dr. Sipprell divided his talk into four sections under the following subheadings: "Customs of Japan," "Religions of Japan," "Commerce and Industry" and "Scenic Japan."

He enlarged upon each of these captions, presenting altogether an intimate view of life generally in Japan. During the course of his address, Dr. Sipprell announced he would conduct a tour to Japan during next July and August.

Rev. G. B. Switzer introduced and thanked the speaker.

Nanaimo, Sept. 18.—Frank Beaudette took a recent assay of a thirty-year-old claim situated behind the Straits Lumber Company, Nanoose Bay, which assayed gold at five ounces to the ton. This is claimed to be a very rich gold strike by local mining men.

REEVE FREE TO MAKE DECISION

Reeve Alexander Lockley, Esquimalt's delegate to the meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities at Kamloops, October 1, will be left free to act as he sees fit, it was decided by the council yesterday evening when municipal policy toward chain stores was brought up.

A letter was read from the reeve of Coquitlam asking Esquimalt's support at the Kamloops gathering for a movement aimed at checking the municipal inroads of chain stores by taxation. It was pointed out in the communication that the provincial government was notified last year of the wishes of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, which at the time passed a resolution drawing attention to the severe competition being given by chain stores to the district merchant.

MENZEL OUT OF TOURNEY

Suffers Surprise Defeat in Los Angeles Tennis at Hands of John Law

Los Angeles, Sept. 18.—In a day of unexpectedly close play, in which several favorites were given bad scares, Roderick Menzel, high-ranking Czechoslovakian star, was eliminated in the first round of the Pacific southwest tennis championships yesterday.

A California collegian, John Law, Stanford University, turned the trick, winning 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Lester Stoefen, world doubles champion; Wilmer Allison, runner-up to Frederick Perry in the national singles, and Wilmer Hines, seeded No. 8 in the tournament, all underwent unusually hard first-round struggles. Menzel eliminated himself. His inability to accustom himself to the hard surface court was responsible for sixty-four of the points credited to Law in their three-set match.

Stoefen defeated Walter Blair, Pomona, 4-6, 6-4, 9-7.

Hines defeated Arthur Kussman, Los Angeles, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Allison defeated William Robertson, Los Angeles, 9-7, 6-2.

Perry, the defending champion, was one of the few players to enjoy easy sailing. He dispatched Ned Wheldon, Los Angeles, from the tournament in short order, 6-1, 6-2.

Trouble also cropped for the stars in the women's championship. Freda Sutter, Britten Wightman Cup player, was forced to three sets to defeat Dorothy Robinson, Los Angeles, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2.

There was one mild upset in the women's singles. Elizabeth Dean, Los Angeles, defeated Jane Sharp, Pasadena, former Canadian junior champion, 1-6, 11-9, 7-5.

Stoeffen and Lott, world's doubles champions, left the courts in some disorder yesterday with one set to be played and the match set-all in a third-round men's doubles affair, with Phil Hanna, Los Angeles, and John Sisson, Alhambra, California.

Wrestling

Montreal — Jim Browning, 220, Verona, Mo., threw Carl Pojello, 200, Hungary, one hour eighteen minutes forty-five seconds.

Camden, N.J.—Maurice Lachapelle, 175, France, defeated Frank Malewicz, 178, Utica, N.Y., two falls to one.

Wilmington, Del.—Scotty McDougall, 215, Toronto, defeated Joe Dusek, 208, Omaha, two falls to one.

BOXING

New York—Jimmy McLarnin, 146¼, Vancouver, outpointed Barney Ross, 140¼, Chicago (15); regained world welterweight championship; Eddie Flynn, 147, New Orleans, stopped Danny Levine, 147, New York (4).

Miami, Fla.—Frankie "Kid" Covelli, 127, Brooklyn, knocked out Bucky Burton, 126, Clinton, Ind. (2).

NO REFUNDING IN ESQUIMALT

"Highway Robbery" to Deprive Humble Investors of Earnings, States Reeve

"No, there will be no refunding in Esquimalt," stated Reeve Alexander Lockley in reply to reporters yesterday evening prior to the regular council meeting.

"We are nursing our finances along carefully and hope everything will be all right," he said when the subject of the provincial government's plan for two British Columbia municipalities was touched upon.

When it was remarked that the word "refunding" might seem mere roundabout phraseology for "confiscation," the reeve observed that there were some people in the stricken municipalities figuring in the new governmental plan who would be only too glad to know their bond principal was going to be guaranteed and that, after several years of getting no interest, they were now going to get 1 per cent.

Referring to the more recent bond issues of Esquimalt municipality, Reeve Lockley stated it would be "highway robbery" to attempt to refund these. They had been participated in by many people with small savings and the decimation of the interest on these $500 and $1,000 sums would work real hardships. The notion that it was only rich investors and coupon-clippers who would be affected by refunding was described as "anti-capitalistic poppycock."

In the face of Esquimalt's new loan of $1,500 from the provincial government and the difficult financial position the municipality has been in for the last year or so, the reeve's words will bring reassurance to municipal investors generally.

Continue to Set Pace in Vancouver Six-day Race; Parrott Is Second

Vancouver, Sept. 18.—Eddie Testa, Los Angeles, and Cecil "Rabbit" Yates, Chicago, retained their lead in the third international six-day bike race here today with a margin in points over the teams of Frank Turano, Italy, and "Polly" Parrott, Victoria, and the veteran Reggie McNamara and Bobbie Echecerria, San Jose, Cal., with whom they were tied in mileage.

At 10 a.m., the leaders had covered 560 miles and four laps and Testa and Yates had 108 points compared with 100 for Turano-Parrott and eighty-three for McNamara-Echeverria.

"Gramophone" For the Blind

British-made Device Here Uses Earphones to "Listen" to Famous Books

A new device of tremendous value to the blind is the British-made gramophone and recordings with earphones to assure privacy, now being shown in Victoria through the efforts of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The instrument here can be used as a gramophone, but its main purpose is to give voice through the earphones to literature which has been recorded on the discs. In the Old Country many famous works have been thus recorded and it can be said that a new era in easing the hardships of blindness has been inaugurated.

On the record being used for demonstration purposes here, a recording of "Zodomirsky's Duel," from the works of Dumas, is being used, the vocalization being an exceptionally pleasant one. The record contains fifteen minutes of steady reading on each side, with the name of the selection in braille on one side and in plain letters on the other.

"Only a few blind people can read braille, which at the best of times is a slow business," said Miss D. Stark, a blind woman of the city who is very active in welfare work among the blind.

"But everybody is going to want this new gramophone as soon as the price comes down to popular figures," she added.

The original intention was to display the device at the recent Government House garden party for the blind, but it arrived too late.

WALKING RACE IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Sept. 18.—A standard 50,000-meter walking marathon will take place around Vancouver and Point Grey on Thanksgiving Day.

The race is being sponsored by the Lancashire Society who is donating a cup and medals for the fastest walkers.

Medals will be given to all those completing the course in a certain time, and valuable prizes will go to men over certain ages and to the oldest walker.

A "seeded handicap" is being held at the same time as the scratch race, so that all competitors, irrespective of age and condition, will have an equal chance.

It is open to all men sixteen years and over and is held under Amateur Athletic Union rules; particulars and entry forms can be obtained from J. R. Abraham, 1346 Arbutus Street.

TO COMMENCE DRIVE SOON

Friendly Help Welfare Association Has Much to Do With $43,500

The drive for $43,500, on which to operate the Friendly Help Welfare Association and kindred societies in Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt, is less than a month away now and committees from the various societies are making plans for the campaign which will get under way October 15 and last about a week. The amount collected during the week is expected to last until October, 1935.

Citizens of Greater Victoria, anxious to help along this splendid work, may make their subscriptions in a lump sum during the week of October 15 or may signify their intention of giving so much a month throughout the year. This latter means has been found most satisfactory both to the donor and to the Help Association.

If officers of the association know they can depend on a certain sum each month it makes their work very much easier. This is also sometimes more satisfactory for the donors. A lump sum may be rather difficult to raise but a certain amount each month comes easily to a man or woman on a regular salary.

A great deal of good and necessary work will be done during the coming twelve months with the amount of money collected in Greater Victoria next month. There are hundreds of pairs of shoes to be purchased for needy children; tired and run-down mothers need special milk and wholesome food; coal and wood must be provided during the winter months and, of course, there are always the social service problems which need the services of skilled case workers.

IRA DILWORTH IS HONORED

Former High School Principal Guest of Teachers at Dinner

Ira Dilworth, former principal of Victoria High School, who will leave shortly to assume his duties as an assistant professor of English at the University of British Columbia, was honored yesterday evening by the city's teaching fraternity as the Victoria and District Teachers' Association tendered him a farewell dinner at the Empress Hotel.

W. H. Wilson, president of the association, presented to Mr. Dilworth, on behalf of the organization, a bound copy of Shelley's poems.

He referred to Mr. Dilworth's long service and influence in educational work here and paid a glowing tribute to the former principal for his activities along educational lines in a provincial field.

Replying, Mr. Dilworth left as his message a plea to the teachers to bring out the talents in their pupils so they might enjoy a fuller life.

He spoke of the friendships he had made here and expressed his regret at leaving Victoria.

During the evening Fraser Lister sang two solos, "Green-Eyed Dragon" and "Harlequin," while Mrs. W. H. Wilson rendered the solos "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" and "My Love's An Arbutus." Mrs. C. C. Warn was the accompanist.

HEAD OF FARM GIVES HINTS

Residents of Braefoot Witness Demonstration By Prof. E. M. Straight

J. Martin's property on the Braefoot Estates, Saanich, was the scene yesterday afternoon of an interesting series of demonstrations staged for the benefit of residents of the estates by Prof. E. M. Straight, director of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Bazan Bay.

Professor Straight covered a wide variety of subjects during his demonstration and address, touching on various aspects of fruit production, the laying-out of orchards, the pruning, budding and grafting of fruit trees, winter planting, the correct use of fertilizers and various points specially concerning Saanich growers.

A collection of specimens of apples, melons and similar produce of the Dominion Experimental Farm was also on display, and served as illustration for the demonstration and address.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Straight by Mr. Martin and A. H. MacPherson, on behalf of the group watching the demonstrations.

ENDEAVOUR

(Acrostic)

Endeavour, true spirit of our British sport,
Never to cry "Enough, we yield the palm."
Demos, palm-itching, struck in our home port,
Even our flag to them was nothing!—Calm.
A crew of gentlemen, both high and low
Vigor in every vein, then manned the yacht.
Over the ocean sailed to meet?—Rainbow.
Unleash thy winds, Boreas, on the spot.
Remember Cowes—where 'tis Sam's turn to go.

—Borys Descarti.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. (Advt.)

A FIGHT OF A SAVAGE TYPE IS what this world seems to hunger for. Boys and girls, there is a greater fight to be staged, and all may win if the "will" does set you free. However, there will be no supporting crys from a blood-thirsty, howling crowd, but as you pass out of this developing arena an unmistakable voice will be heard say: "You fought a good fight." In the meantime build a healthy body. Eat our coarse whole wheat bread (free from molasses, sugar or white flour), it is one of nature's foods that builds and satisfies. Many do, and so may you, profit daily—buy our quality foods, they are good. Golden Loaf Bakery, 711 Fort Street.

DO NOT GIVE CATHARTIC FOR ABDOMINAL PAIN

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

The problem of appendicitis continues to be one of the most serious of the conditions coming to the attention of the medical profession.

Indeed, in Philadelphia special arrangements are now being made so that every bottle of any cathartic bears a special label warning the user not to take a laxative or a physic in the presence of abdominal pain, and not to give anything by mouth until the family doctor has been called and until he has had a chance to advise the proper procedure. Any pain in the abdomen or any cramps or soreness that lasts for four hours is usually serious.

The diagnosis of appendicitis is difficult in children, who are likely to suffer with abdominal pains because of indiscretions of diet. Moreover, the appendix in a child is somewhat thinner and contains more lymphoid tissue than does that of an adult, so that appendicitis in a child is a more sudden and acute process than it is in the adult.

For this reason an early and correct diagnosis of the cause of abdominal pain in a child is much more important than in an adult.

In many cases the appendix has broken and peritonitis has followed in a child, because some careless parent has given a large dose of castor oil to relieve colicky pains.

Appendicitis has been found in babies soon after birth. The number of deaths from appendicitis during the first three years of life is high, in proportion to the rate associated with appendicitis later in life, simply because infection in children of this age is a most serious matter.

It is well known to the medical profession that the chance of recovery from appendicitis after operation is much greater when the infection is limited to the appendix itself. Removal of the appendix at this stage will yield recovery in almost 100 per cent of cases.

The great danger comes when the appendix breaks and the infected material is spilled in the abdominal cavity, setting up the condition known as peritonitis. Under such circumstances the chance of recovery is much less.

The chance of recovery from appendicitis is also much less when the child happens to be suffering from heart disease, kidney inflammation, bronchitis, or any infectious disease.

Do not try to treat every pain in the abdomen of your child by administering a cathartic. The right procedure is to apply heat or cold to relieve the pain and to call a physician.

The doctor makes his diagnosis on the presence of such symptoms as severe vomiting, fever, nausea and severe pain in the abdomen localized over the appendix, and changes in the blood which are found by examination of the blood under a microscope.

The safety of the child depends on an early and correct diagnosis of the conditions and on an operation while inflammation is still definitely limited to the appendix itself.

"The Drunkard" Opens Friday

Theatregoers of Victoria, who have long heard of and cherished the desire to witness the stage presentation of "The Drunkard," or "The Fallen Saved," are to have an opportunity at the Empire Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

O. O. McIntyre, the famous writer, said of this attraction: "'The Drunkard' or 'The Fallen Saved' is in its fifth month as this is broadcast, bringing to a generation that worships Max Baer and Peggy Joyce the drama of the forties, the lustful drama of hisses, asides and dirty work work at the crossroads."

The eminent worldling, Harry Bannister, transplanted the idea from California, where the desperate opus is in its second year.

"World Moves On" To Open To-morrow

"Imagine a film star who methodically and regularly deflates her ego!"

With this remark, Hollywood marveled at Madeleine Carroll, co-featured with Franchot Tone in the Fox film, "The World Moves On," which will open at the Capitol Theatre to-morrow.

Madeleine's naturalness and utter lack of conceit "floored" the film colony.

"How do you manage to remain so modest?" interviewers asked her.

"Temperament is merely bad temper," she replied, "and there is no excuse for either bad temper or conceit when everything possible is done to make us happy in studios."

COLUMBIA THEATRE

A special entrance to Paramount's Hollywood studio was prepared for the beautiful girls brought to the coast by Earl Carroll from his Broadway production, who appear in "Murder at the Vanities," now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

The picture, directed by Mitchell Leisen, features Victor McLaglen and Jack Oakie in the comedy roles, Carl Brisson and Kitty Carlisle in the romantic leads, and Duke Ellington and his famous orchestra.

DOMINION THEATRE

Una Merkel's resemblance to Lillian Gish is largely responsible for her having won the distinction of being the first real talking picture actress. Her debut in talking films took place in the early part of 1924, in a two-reeler entitled "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Miss Merkel's early experience is clearly demonstrated by her outstanding performances in such productions as "Private Lives," "Huddle" and "Red Headed Woman." In her latest film, "The Cat's Paw," which is at the Dominion Theatre to-day, Miss Merkel has the leading feminine role opposite Harold Lloyd.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Alice Faye, the petite blonde who has a prominent part in the Fox Film production of George White's "Scandals," has one of the most unusual watches. It is a tiny cloisonne jockey cap, pendant style, on a little silver chain. On this same chain is a rabbit's foot. The rabbit's foot belongs to a famous Chicago doctor.

George White's "Scandals" is now at the Playhouse Theatre.

Ganges

Ganges, Sept. 18.—Ganges Chapter I.O.D.E. resumed their monthly meetings after the summer holidays on Friday at the home of Mrs. Edward Walter, Ganges Hill. The regent, Mrs. V. C. Best, occupied the chair.

A report was given of the garden fete and tennis tournament held at the home of Mrs. Desmond Crofton, by means of which the sum of $45 was raised toward the Fowler bed for the Ganges Chapter ward in the Gulf Islands Hospital.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Crofton. A letter of thanks was read from the secretary of the hospital board to the chapter for their generous gift.

A pleasant part of the programme was the presentation to Miss Agnes Cairns, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cairns, Fulford, of the handsome prize annually given by the chapter to the pupil obtaining highest marks in entrance class in the island schools. Miss Cairns received the prize from Mrs. Curtis Sampson, honorary vice-regent of the chapter. Mrs. Cairns thanked the members of the chapter on behalf of her daughter for the gift, "Palgraves Poems and Lyrics."

Mrs. Sampson gave an interesting account of the national chapter meeting recently held in Toronto, which she attended, accompanied by Mrs. Genge, who also addressed the meeting.

It was arranged to hold a miscellaneous sale and tea early in October.

A pleasant luncheon party was given at Harbor House on Friday when the regent, Mrs. V. C. Best, and members of the Ganges Chapter I.O.D.E. were hostesses to Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Victoria, honorary vice-regent of the chapter, and Mrs. Genge, regent of the Municipal Chapter, Victoria. The table was decorated with vari-colored cosmos and foliage.

Mrs. E. Parsons, who has been spending a holiday in Portland, Ore., has returned to her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Price, accompanied by their two children, have left on a motor trip up-island.

Mrs. D. G. Crofton, Ganges, has been spending several days in Victoria.

On Saturday afternoon the Guild of Sunshine held their monthly meeting, Mrs. Stuart Holmes presiding. The hospital representative reported that the guild ward needed a new beside table, and was instructed to see that one was purchased. A quantity of socks, etc., knitted by a member for Christmas hampers were brought in and a sum of money voted for purchase of a further supply of wool. It was arranged to hold a sale of Christmas gifts and a rummage sale on November 17. It was also decided to continue the art class. Tea hostess were Mrs. E. Parsons and Mrs. M. B. Mouat.

The fondness which that active garden pest, the earwig, has for tubular retreats is well known. Instead of setting special traps for this insect one reader suggests that the roots of lupins or delphiniums can be dug up and shaken or tapped on the ground. The earwigs will fall out and can be killed. As many as twenty-five have been found in one lupin stump.

DICKENS GROUP DEBATES PLANS

Fellowship to Stage Social Evening For Christmas Charity

With details left in the hands of an executive committee, the Dickens Fellowship at its meeting yesterday evening decided to try to arrange a social evening to raise funds for Christmas charity, thus adopting a true Dickensian spirit for the season.

The meeting was the first of the fall and winter season and was in charge of W. L. Llewellyn, the president of the Fellowship. A. W. Arnup and Mrs. J. B. Kennedy presented a character sketch from "The Old Curiosity Shop," depicting Dick's cribbage game with the "Marchioness." The sketch proved very popular and it was decided to give another one at the October meeting.

Now that the reading of "The Old Curiosity Shop" by members of the Fellowship is almost completed, it is likely the choice for the 1934-35 season will be "Pickwick Papers."

It was learned at the meeting, much to the pleasure of the members, that a bouquet of flowers adorned the bench at the Old Bailey from the day the late Sir Henry Dickens mounted it to his death.

REPORT ISSUED ON MINE STRIKE

To correct a report regarding a gold find on Vancouver Island, Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Mines, to-day issued the following statement:

"My attention has been directed to a statement appearing in the press that a rich gold strike has been made at Nanoose, Vancouver Island, ore taken from the same being said to have shown five ounces of gold to the ton.

"From the data before me there would seem to be a doubt as to the accuracy of this report. Certain samples were submitted to the provincial assayer for treatment, and his certificates issued on September 10 and 15, give the following results: Sample No. 1—Gold, 50 ounces per ton; silver, 1.5 ounces per ton; copper, 11 per cent per ton. Samples No. 2 and 3—These failed to give any values.

"It is felt that the facts should be made known, in order that it may be made clear that there is no occasion for undue excitement; but it is not the wish to create the impression that these prospects are without interest. There are indications, both on this property and on other nearby prospects, that the possibilities of the district justify prospecting."

NEW HOME ON SEA TERRACE

Another new home will rise in Victoria at 720 Sea Terrace, according to a building permit issued late yesterday at the city hall.

The dwelling will be a seven-room structure costing $3,700 and will be built for Lt.-Col. A. E. Harris by A. McKinty, Royal Oak. J. Graham Johnson is the architect.

Another permit for $500 alterations to the Crystal Spring Soda Works on Richardson Road was issued yesterday. They helped to swell the month's building totals which have been comparatively low to date.

Presentation To City Employee

Employees of the City Hall yesterday honored William E. Farmer Jr., clerk in the water rates collector's office, who was married this morning, with a presentation in the mayor's office.

G. M. Irwin, city engineer and water commissioner, made the presentation which consisted of an electric waffle iron, electric percolator, toaster and tray and an electric iron.

The gift was accompanied by the best wishes of the staff suitably expressed by Mr. Irwin.

LIKES VICTORIA'S TRAFFIC CONTROL

While civic officials consider recommendations from Chief of Police Thomas Heatley regarding the possible installation of automatic traffic signals here, at least one set of visitors to the city during the summer have registered their votes against any proposed change.

In a letter received by the city clerk to-day, Ralph R. Eusden, M.D., of Long Beach, Cal., has voiced his opinion in a communication which read in part as follows:

"Nowhere between Los Angeles and the northwest did we fine better or more disciplined control of traffic than in Victoria."

Vancouver, the letter said, was just another American city, hard, moving under pressure.

"Keep Victoria as Victoria and Southern Californians at least will visit you increasingly," Dr. Eusden wrote.

FIRE DESTROYS SOL DUC HOTEL

Defective Wiring Blamed For Outbreak Which Razed Washington Resort

Associated Press

Port Angeles, Wash., Sept. 18.—Fire, believed to have been caused by defective wiring, destroyed the hotel at Sol Duc Hot Springs, forty miles from here in the Olympic mountains, early to-day with a loss estimated at $40,000.

Rangers from the Snider forest service station twenty-five miles away aided in controlling the flames and saved cabins and the store and restaurant building.

The hotel had been closed since Labor Day, after a busy season, and only a few attendants and several guests were living there. None were injured.

The hotel, a three-story concrete structure, was said to be covered by insurance. C. F. Martin, Seattle contractor and owner of the resort, was in the east on a business trip but was expected here soon.

Mr. Lockley quoted the municipal relief officer to show Kroeger had refused to work, and said he would never sign a relief cheque for a man who did not accept the obligation to work for it if asked to.

Fusion Rule In South Rhodesia

The object is to ensure stable government for the next five years. Prime Minister G. M. Huggins will lead the new party.

Maynard Elects Speedy Trial

Chooses Judge Without Jury; Date to Be Set on October 1

J. William Maynard is to take a speedy trial before Judge Lampman without a jury.

He elected thus to-day when he was formally brought before the judge to make his choice between a speedy trial or to go before a jury at the autumn criminal assizes.

The trial will not come on until some time in October.

A. J. Patton as defence counsel appeared in the court room with Mr. Maynard and advised him as to the oral replies he made to the judge.

Cleeve G. White appeared for the prosecution.

The judge read the two charges in the warrant of commitment on which Mr. Maynard was sent up for trial, following the two-day hearing before Magistrate Jay in the Police Court.

The first count was that of converting, with intent to defraud, the property of J. R. Brown and Agnes Amelia Brown with which he had been entrusted.

The judge read the section of the code giving the prisoner his choice of trials, and asked him which he would choose.

"A judge without a jury," Mr. Maynard replied, following the words given him by Mr. Patton.

The judge then read the second count by which Mr. Maynard, being a trader and debtor to the amount of more than $1,000, had failed to keep books, and asked him how he desired to be tried.

"Just the same way," Mr. Maynard replied.

Mr. Patton interjected, "by a judge without a jury."

The judge asked the lawyers whether they were ready to have the date of the trial set.

"It is a question of the bookkeeping that has to be completed before the case is ready for trial," said Mr. Patton. "There is quite an amount of bookkeeping to be done."

Mr. White proposed that the trial be stood over to a day to be fixed.

The judge agreed to have the case put on the County Court list for October, which will come up on the first Monday of October with the other trials to have their dates fixed.

Mr. Maynard's bail of $5,000 on which he has been out on liberty was continued.

RECOVERY IS SLOW PROCESS

Sound Management and Patience Advised By H. B. Henwood

"Our problems are difficult, but with good sound management of our affairs and the exercise of some patience, this country will find its way back to more prosperous conditions.

"Canadians must realize that they cannot spend their way to prosperity. This country cannot follow the example of the United States with its NRA and inflation projects, and it may be that the people of Canada will do better if they are satisfied to accept the acts of Providence and rely upon the workings of the old law of supply and demand to lead them out of the depression."

These are the opinions of Harvey B. Henwood of Toronto, general manager of the Bank of Toronto, rated as one of Canada's leading financial authorities, who is in Victoria today.

Discussing prevalent economic conditions, Mr. Henwood said that improvement was evident, but return to prosperity must of necessity be a slow process. There are so many serious problems— federal, provincial and municipal, heavy debts, large deficits and heavy taxation—the banker says.

"The free movement of world trade is still hampered by restrictions in many countries," he points out. "The United States is making a strong effort to restore normal conditions within its borders, but it remains to be seen," he says, "if the drastic plans adopted will work out."

Touching upon the importance of farming to the Dominion, Mr. Henwood believes that grain prices will remain firm and that much of the wheat carryover will be disposed of before the next harvest.

The railway problem is receiving more attention and there seems a determination to cut down costs and turn deficits into surpluses. The same policy held in all government forms and should tend to lower taxation, he believes

BANKING CHANGES

Relative to banking changes and the Central Bank of Canada, Mr. Henwood says the chartered banks would be required to hold in central bank notes and keep on deposit with the new bank upwards of $100,000,000 on which they would receive no interest.

In addition the note circulation privilege which the chartered banks had enjoyed for many years, was to be gradually taken away over a period of ten years and possibly at the end of that period the chartered bank notes might disappear altogether. Mr. Henwood takes the view that the central bank would curtail the earnings of chartered banks and reduce their ability to build up reserves. He added that the new bank would receive full co-operation from the existing chartered banks, which are interested in the sound financial progress of the country.

Mr. Henwood is accompanied here to-day by Mrs. Henwood and their son, Robert W. Henwood.

During the day Mr. Henwood conferred with C. W. Pangman, local manager of the Bank of Toronto.

Members of Victoria Junior Assembly of the Native Sons of Canada will hold a special meeting to-night at 8 o'clock in the assembly chambers, 1414 Douglas Street. Business will include consideration of preparations for winter activities, the advisability of holding a banquet or an indoor picnic, nomination of officers for the coming term, and general welfare.

WAR GAS DEADLY FOR EIGHT DAYS

Associated Press

Paris, Sept. 18.—The newspaper Le Jour to-day said a method which makes poison gases deadly for eight days has been perfected by German chemists.

A special absorbent clay is impregnated with gases, then dried and sprayed from an airplane exhaust, the newspaper said, in the form of a fine powder.

SEES LEAGUE AS SUNSHINE

Geneva Body Bright Spot in Europe Clouded With Long Shadows, Kiwanians Told

In a Europe clouded by long shadows, Geneva's League of Nations stands out as a conspicuous bit of sunshine, in the opinion of James Gibson, British Columbia Rhodes scholar who addressed the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

The speaker sketched various trends and incidents with which he had come into contact during the last three years on various visits to different parts of Europe.

Turning to Germany he spoke of the astonishing changes in internal life he had seen during five separate visits, the first of which had been made while Hitler was still struggling for power.

He referred to the courageous efforts of Germany to re-establish itself as a major power.

Enabling legislation passed by Hitler to secure the necessary legal power for his actions were outlined. Mr. Gibson spoke of the curtailment of religious and press liberties in Germany. To his mind that had resulted in the tendency to eliminate political thought by the individual. This was further advanced through the necessity of the people adhering to Nazi ideals for the sake of economic welfare.

Briefly he outlined the international effect of recent activities in Germany.

PERSONAL LIBERTY

To indicate the restrictions placed upon the individual, the speaker stated he had been deprived of his copy of The London Times on his last visit there. In Berlin he had been prevented from taking snapshots.

A Nazi outfitter's shop in Hamburg had given prominence to knives bearing the inscription "Blood and Honor" etched into them. To the speaker that appeared a retroactive move to pre-war militarism.

In some detail he outlined Nazi ideals voiced by leaders of that movement.

He believed the Nazi programme had been of material benefit to the people and had established a spartan spirit of self-reliance. These, he did not believe, outweighed the disturbing influence of the Nazi movement on international affairs.

Mr. Gibson believed disillusionment would be the greatest obstacle Germany had to face.

In justification to Hitler, he said had that leader not come to the fore when he did, Germany might now be in a far more chaotic state through Communistic dominance. It was up to the rest of the world to see that Germany lived up to its declaration of the people wanting work and peace.

ITALIAN OUTLOOK

Leaving Germany he turned his attention to Italy where, he said, one party influence was thoroughly dominant, but better disciplined than in Germany.

Even the universities there were becoming largely party organizations.

He did not believe Italy was a threat to the peace of Europe. More than ever, was it borne in upon him that individualistic thought was discouraged.

He considered Austria's position one of transition and Poland a land working to build up an economic strength it had neglected for sometime.

The Scandinavian countries he believed the most stable he had visited. They, he declared, were working along co-operative lines.

SUNSHINE

Among the shadows of Europe he saw a bright patch of sunshine in the League of Nations. The League would be effective only if the governments which belonged to it would bring to it carefully thought out schemes for mutual benefit and with the plans the determination to carry them out.

The shadows over Europe were long shadows but not permanent, he believed. Concluding, he voiced a plea to the people of Canada to keep themselves well informed upon matters of international import in view of the increasingly important part the country would play in world affairs.

The speaker was introduced by S. J. D. Clack, president of the club, and thanked for his address by J. B. Clearihue.

PRICE-FIXING LIKELY TO END

Government Interference in Business in U.S. Fails, Says Prof. R. S. Baker

Government interference has not proved the success expected in the United States and the government's policy now will be to leave business alone as much as possible by abandoning many price-fixing arrangements and generating in business circles a greater degree of confidence, according to Professor R. S. Baker, who is back in Victoria to-day after a speaking tour on the mainland.

"An outstanding development on the American side is the growing influence of Miss Perkins, Secretary of Labor in the Roosevelt cabinet, in giving greater liberty to business," Dr. Baker said. "When this development is known, full confidence will return and we may look for a firm upward movement.

"It is expected that government expenditures will be very heavy this fall in the United States.

"Difficulties in the labor situation are likely to continue. It is felt that union leaders are taking advantage of the situation and that there was no need for the costly textile strike, as the workers in this industry under present conditions have no real grievance.

"On the Canadian side, around Vancouver, I found conditions much improved. Hotels and restaurants have had the best summer since the depression began. I was a guest at broadcasting stations and was pleased to see the good showing our own Victoria station CFCT made in comparison. The Vancouver studios were filled with visitors."

Many Fine Exhibits; Premier Pattullo to Perform Opening Ceremony

In the agricultural building long tables are covered with flowers and vegetables, and in the sheds close by the poultry is housed, while the livestock barns are awaiting the cattle exhibits, which will arrive to-morrow morning.

The centre table in the main building is a mass of flowers, and, according to H. E. Tanner, president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, which sponsors the fair, the flower exhibit is one of the finest and largest in his experience. Dahlias, gladioli Michaelmas daisies and other fall flowers are attractively arranged in vases. The table to the right holds the vegetable exhibits which, according to the official in charge, is much larger than usual. One of the most spectacular exhibits on this table is a gigantic pumpkin which weighs fifty-one pounds.

On the left of the centre flower table are the fruit, jam and domestic science entries. Close to the walls are the grain, hay and root exhibits which, according to the official patchwork quilts made by the farmers' wives in the district. There is also a fine exhibition of embroidery, and the number of entries for the amateur photograph contest is large. In the centre of the gallery is a display of posed photographs, put on by the Pictorial Photographers of Victoria. Opposite the quilt display are the children's exhibits, which are of outstanding excellence. They include penmanship, painted designs, lettering, nature drawing, health posters and crayon drawings.

On the dais on the ground floor is a display put on by the Saanich Laboratory of Plant Pathology. It illustrates various plant diseases and the methods of controlling them. Also on this platform are the two collections of vegetables and the collection of fruit.

Judging of the horticultural, domestic science and poultry began at 12.30 o'clock to-day.

To-morrow the fair will be officially opened by Premier Pattullo at 2 o'clock. One of the most interesting attractions to-morrow will be the Highland events. These will include dancing and piping and will feature a quadrille dance. In the middle of the Scotch games there will be a gymnasium display put on by the North Saanich girls under the direction of E. W. Hammond, late of the Royal Marine Light Infantry. The Highland events are scheduled for 10.30 o'clock, while the gymnasium display will take place in the afternoon.

Judges for the fair are: Horses, Robert Matthews, Sidney; cattle, sheep and swine, S. J. Bowman, Vancouver; goats, George Pilmer, Department of Agriculture; poultry, Rev. C. McDiarmid, Ladysmith; eggs, William Hagger, Dominion egg inspector, Victoria; grains, grasses, seeds, field roots for stock, honey and potatoes, E. M. McLarnin's Smashing Victory Over Ross Was Popular One

THE SPORTS MIRROR

CONTINUAL postponement of the McLarnin-Ross fight has brought to mind the fact that there are few hardy games that defy the devastating power of the Weather Man. Horse-racing goes on even though the lee rail may be awash. Rugby and football can muddle through mud and rain and even ice and snow. There is something to be said for golfers. They defy the Weather Man. Once in a long while the stubborn and vindictive Weather Man will toss a cloudburst or its nearest relative over a prosperous golf tournament and score a temporary victory. But it goes down in the records as an upset.

The success of golfers in defying the attacks of the Weather Man is due to preparedness and a certain personal freedom with regard to the implements and uniforms allowed on the links. A golfer may wear spiked shoes, goloshes or high boots at his own discretion. He can don a rubber hat and slicker and appear on the tee like a Nova Scotia fisherman on deck in a storm off the Grand Banks. He may move forward under an umbrella from tee to green.

These things would be frowned upon in tennis, for instance, and never have been permitted in big league baseball. The late Germany Schaefer was playing for Detroit against the New York Yankees. It had been raining and Detroit was ahead by a thin margin. Mr. Schaefer, in his comical way, was trying to persuade the umpire to call the game. He went up to bat with an umbrella over his head. He was rebuked and the umbrella was confiscated. A few minutes later he appeared at second base wearing rubber boots. He did not have to play any more that day. The umpires told him so. The game went on.

But a real rain quickly washes out a ball game or a tennis tournament. Rainy weather uniforms are frowned upon. Jockeys, football players and golfers go prepared for downpours, but tennis, baseball, polo and open-air boxing are merely fair weather sports.

A reservation may be made with regard to boxing. Ahead of time it is strictly a fair-weather spectacle. But once the crowd has gathered and the big bout has started, nothing short of earthquake and fire can stop it. It may rain and blow. Fighters and spectators may become the ultimate victims of grippe, chilblains or pneumonia. But once the gate receipts are in the till and the main bout has started, the defiant attitude of the promoters toward the wicked Weather Man is: "Go ahead now. You can't hurt us!"

There was the first Dempsey-Tunney fight, for example. What a lovely rain that was! It would have halted any ball game or washed away any tennis tournament. But the fight went on relentlessly.

In 1928 the United States open championship was played at Olympia Fields, Chicago. A downpour, with lightning and high winds, enlivened one afternoon of play. Trees fell across the course. Torrents dashed down the slopes and out over the fairways. The golfers went right on through it and, at the height of the storm, Walter Hagen played nine holes in 35 strokes or some such neat score.

Then it cleared up beautifully. That same night Mickey Walker fought Ace Hudkins in one of the Chicago ball parks. Lured by the fine evening and the prospects of a bruising battle, a large crowd had gathered. The battlers had just started when up came another storm of the kind that had swept the golf links earlier in the day.

Water came down in sheets. Every one was drenched. The canvas seemed ankle-deep in water. But the crowd was there, the money was in and the fight had started. It went the limit. At times, boxing can be as hardy as golf.

In cold weather they call off ball games because the players can not play with frozen hands. In wet weather they call off polo games because the horses can not turn sharply on suggy turf. Open air ice hockey is often postponed on account of beautiful warm weather, healthful for the players but fatal for the ice.

From this it can be seen that the attack of the Weather Man has variety. He can turn on a cold blast and stop the ball players. He can turn on the heat and leave the hockey players stranded on the banks. He hamstrings the horses in polo by taking away the firm footing needed for the whirling game. Thus the attack of the Weather Man may be against the players directly or against their accessories or, finally, against the playing surfaces. A triple-threat man of the first water.

The game of cricket may proceed amiably along through a reasonable amount of rain and over a sticky wicket, but football, golf, soccer and swimming rarely halt for rain or high winds. Possibly soccer is the hardiest of all sports. It is played from the arctic clime to the equatorial zone with a magnificent disregard for temperature, humidity, atmospheric pressure, rate of precipitation or condition of the ground. This has led some observers to put the soccer players on pedestals as the hardy heroes of the sports world, but the rating is by no means unanimous. Some cynical bystanders merely refer to the soccer tribe as fellows who do not know enough to come in out of the rain.

SOCCER PRACTICE

A workout of the Maccabees football team will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the lower Beacon Hill grounds. All last year's players and any others interested are invited to attend.

Unable to Hear Announcer Give Decision Over Bedlam of Celebrating

Jimmy Will Make Trip to Ireland

Canadian Press

New York, Sept. 18. — There was no holding the Kelly's or the Clancy's today.

For that broth of a boy, Jimmy McLarnin, was lording it over all the welterweight fighting-men of the world again.

The belting Canadian of Irish extraction from Vancouver loosed all the power in his stout arms upon the elusive head of Barney Ross yesterday evening and after fifteen fury-filled rounds succeeded in retrieving the crown the courageous Chicago Jew lifted from Jimmy less than four months ago.

Like the rain that delayed the fight eleven days, the two little fistic giants pelted leather at each other almost incessantly from the flashing start to the weary finish. They neither gave nor asked quarter as they slashed with everything they had.

There was McLarnin's vaunted hitting power against Barney's greater speed. And in the end Referee Arthur Donovan voted for the former when the two judges disagreed on a verdict.

One of the judges, Charlie Shortell, scored six rounds for the Canadian, five for the champion and four even. The other, Charlie Lynch, held Ross won seven, Jimmy six and two were even. Referee Donovan gave McLarnin ten rounds and Ross five, the only decisive margin chalked up.

It was the reverse of the scoring on May 28 when Ross outsped and outfoxed a McLarnin who was below top form. Then, Referee Ed. Forbes had to cast the deciding vote when the judges failed to see eye to eye.

DECISION POPULAR

But the majority of the 30,000 odd who paid $125,000 to see yesterday evening's spectacle—and certainly got their money's worth—found the decision to their liking. One could not hear Joe "Leather-Lungs" Humphrey officially announce the re-crowning of McLarnin as the Madison Square Garden Bowl became a bedlam of cheers. The booes were a poor second.

Smiles which preceded the gong faded as Ross and McLarnin swung into quick action. They dealt each other terrific punishment, belting with an abandon that belied their reputations as two of the ring's scientists. There were no knockdowns, but as early as the third round their faces started taking on a new appearance.

DEADLY PUNCHES

By the eighth McLarnin's right eyebrow dripped blood and his left eye started to puff. Something had to give as the stout-hearted little Hebrew flung lefts and rights with a speed that was difficult to follow, trying to counter the stiffer punches McLarnin poured at the bobbing target before him.

An overhand right made Barney's lip pulpy in the next round and Jimmy caught the same sort of bleeding bruise in the eleventh. It seemed both of them might drop from the exhaustion of their efforts. By the end of the twelfth the Canadian's left optic was sealed tight, then in the thirteenth he opened a wide wound over Barney's right eye.

It was a weaving, stabbing McLarnin who carried the early rounds, stabbing lefts to the head, hooking deftly to the ribs. Punching with a new-found power, the champion flung a half dozen solid rights at McLarnin, and Celtic hopes dropped as Jimmy seemed momentarily bewildered.

The upsurge of Ross's hopes was brief, however, as the heavier punching and determined Jimmy took two and three jabs to the head to land one solid belt. In the eighth Ross again spurted, his flashing speed throwing his opponent completely off balance, but Jimmy came back, seemingly and strangely as strong as ever after the minute intermission and went on to victory with both hands and colors flying.

Despite the mad pace that had gone before, the last round was viciously fought, with the champion staging a fanatical rally trying to make up the lost round. He twirled about the ring like a dervish, flinging punches at McLarnin. Jimmy skidded on the canvas twice during Barney's closing spurt but both were accountable to weariness.

DOES CARTWHEEL

The dynamiter still had the ginger left, however, to do a cartwheel after the last bell, his historic gesture of victory. He was prancing like a colt when he reached him dressing-room and flung his arms about old "Pop" Foster, his career-long manager.

"I knew I'd do it, 'Pop'," he shouted jubilantly, before settling down to tell the gathering newspapermen that Ross had been tough "but there never was a minute's doubt in my mind that I'd take him this trip."

"Pop" spoke of a quick trip to Ireland for the McLarnins. "Then we'll take on anyone."

Two doors down from there, in the Ross dressing-room, there was dejection and argument with the decision.

"McLarnin gave me a much better fight than he did in May," Ross said, "but I think I fought the best fight of my career and naturally feel I earned the verdict."

The managers of the ex-welterweight and ruling lightweight champion called the decision "miserable."

McLarnin scaled 146¼ to 140¼ for Ross.

ROUND ONE

ROUND TWO

Jimmy drove two left hooks on the champion's jaw. McLarnin appeared in much finer shape and was fighting much better than in his first engagement, but his showing didn't last long. Ross caught him suddenly with a beautiful left hook to the chin, then rifled a half dozen rights into the Canadian's head. Jimmy swayed as Ross batted him across the ring with both hands but suddenly the Canadian stiffened, flashed a booming left hook to Barney's body and another right to the chin that forced the champion to stop short. Hammering away in a frenzy of punches that set the crowd roaring, they punched each other about the ring like a pair of preliminary boys, instead of the top ranking little men of the fight game. Ross caught McLarnin with a hard right to the head as the bell rang.

ROUND THREE

ROUND FOUR

Boxing beautifully, McLarnin slipped under Ross's left jab, and twice smashed the champ's jaw with rights. Two more rights shook Ross and another smash raised the lump further on the champion's left cheek. McLarnin sunk a left hook deep in Ross's body and the champion, feeling the tide swinging against him, cut loose with a terrific rally. He nailed McLarnin with a left hook and right cross to the head, battered his body, but the Canadian smashed back with a right that split Barney's lips. The champion spat a mouthful of blood as he flung himself recklessly on the challenger, belting his head with both hands. Two furious rights to the jaw rocked the challenger and he held as Ross flailed at him madly with both hands. Jimmy pulled away quickly, and stabbed two lefts into Ross's face, now showing increased signs of wear, as the bell sounded.

ROUND FIVE

McLarnin still did not show a single sign of punishment about the head, while Ross's left eye was half closed and his lips were badly cut. They met in a fast exchange in mid-ring, and worked into a corner where Ross boomed a left hook into McLarnin's body but took a left hook high on the head. McLarnin smashed a hard left hook into low territory, and he was promptly cautioned by Referee Arthur Donovan. McLarnin stepped right after the champion, nicking his head with three left hooks but missing a terrific right swing. Another left hook to the chin slowed Barney down, but he hammered fiercely on McLarnin's body with both

Congratulations Wired McLarnin

From Victoria's mayor, on behalf of the citizens, and from Rebel Mowat, on behalf of Cox's Army, the outlaw baseball team for which he played here this summer, wires raced to Jimmy McLarnin, king again of the welters, following his victory yesterday evening over Chicago's Hebrew, Barney Ross.

"Congratulations, Jimmy. We knew you could do it," Mowat's wire ran above the signature of "Cox's Army."

"Congratulations on your victory from the citizens of Victoria," the mayor's telegram read.

The Yankees' first baseman connected with two of his team's six hits at Detroit to increase his average to .360, a gain of two points. Charley Gehringer also boosted his average one point, going up to .356 with two safe blows.

Detroit Appear To Have Cinched Flag

Shutout Victory Over New York Yankees Yesterday Boosted American League's Total of Six and Half Games; Two Rookies Are Brilliant

They can nail the American League flag on Navin Field's flagpole right now and be all but certain it will stay there until next fall.

Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers, scenting a league championship for the first time in a quarter-century, pinned back the New York Yankees' ears 3 to 0 in the first game of what once looked like a crucial series yesterday and stretched their lead to six and one-half games. Mathematically the race is still open, but you can name your own odds if you think the Yankees have a chance of overhauling the leaders with only two weeks to go.

Joe McCarthy sent out his left-handed ace, Vernon Gomez, in an effort to keep the Yankees in the race, but the southpaw was outpitched all the way by Alvin Crowder, Washington cast-off, and suffered his fifth defeat where he had been looking for his twenty-sixth victory.

RECRUIT BRILLIANT

Otherwise the American League programme for the day was marked by the sensational major league debut of George Hockette, a left-hander obtained by Boston Red Sox from Kansas City. Hockette held St. Louis Browns to two singles while Boston nicked Irvine Hadley for eight hits and won, 3 to 0.

Another rookie, Reese Diggs, Baltimore sandlotter, pitched Washington Senators to a 13 to 6 victory over Cleveland Indians as Pete Susko, recruit first-sacker for the Senators, pounded out five hits including a triple and a double.

Diggs allowed only eight hits, but home runs by Earl Averill and Bob Weiland swelled Cleveland's run total. Eric McNair hit two home runs, each coming with two on to lead Philadelphia Athletics to a 9 to 4 triumph over Chicago White Sox.

The entire National League programme was rained out.

TORONTO IN BALL FINAL

Leafs Defeat Newark 2 to 0 to Reach Last Play-down in Minor League

Newark, N.J., Sept. 18.—Toronto Maple Leafs fought their way into the final round of the International Baseball League's play-offs yesterday evening, by defeating Newark Bears, league champions, 2 to 0, in the seventh and deciding game of their semi-final series.

Don Brennan, former Newark right hander who was driven out of the box by his one-time mates Sunday, gave a brilliant performance under the lights yesterday evening to score his second victory of the seven-game engagement. Toronto scored a run in the second and eighth.

As the result of the final fray, giving the Leafs the edge four games to three, Toronto will meet the winner of the Rochester-Albany duel in another best four-of-seven series and the victor in that competition will battle the American Association champions in the anual "little world series."

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 18.—Rochester Red Wings defeated Albany Senators 7 to 4 yesterday evening in the fourth game of their International League playoff series. The victory gave the Wings a three-to-one lead and they now need only one more triumph to reach the playoff finals against Toronto.

The Senators played ragged ball in the field and only two of the Rochester runs were earned, one scoring when Ray Prim, Albany starting pitcher, issued his only pass to Estel Crabtree with the bases loaded in the seventh inning. The fifth game will be played here to-night.

Arnold and Quigley Defeat Arrows 6 to 2 in Vancouver Play-off

Vancouver, Sept. 18.—Arnold and Quigley tied up the Senior Baseball League playoffs at three games each and made a seventh and deciding game necessary yesterday evening by defeating Arrows 6 to 2.

The clothiers collected eight hits, only two more than the transfermen, but bunched them while Elmer Bray, former Pacific Coast League twirler on the mound for Arnold and Quigley, kept the Arrows' six safeties well scattered.

Three hits, one a double, gave the clothiers three runs in the third inning. An error and a single accounted for a single marker in the fourth, and Hal Lee made sure of the decision in the seventh when he hit for the circuit with two men on base.

Arrows scored both runs in the fifth on two errors and a triple.

Front Runners Get Six Out Of Seven

Pacemakers Have Day at Willows; Only One Horse Comes From Behind to Win; Tiny Captive Is Day's Longshot, Paying $32.05

An old maxim for wagering on a "bull ring" is "bet on the front runners." Just how true this turns out was illustrated at the Willows yesterday when in six out of the seven races the horse that went to the front at the start was the eventual winner.

This extended to all three of the distance races where it is the exception rather than the rule that the pacemaker wins.

The only front runner which did not win was Maurice Ed, a longshot in the third, but he never had anything like a clear lead on his field, and when it came to the stretch drive the veteran gelding Maryland came charging through to victory.

In the first Tab's Bid, from the James stable, made every post a winner, and scored by a length and a half over the favorite, Prince Goldstream, while Western Holiday charged through the show.

"Doc" Derbyshire's Umpire assumied the pace-making role in the second, assumed a one length lead, and although going lame in one leg at the head of the stretch, still had the courage to stave off the closing bid of Nellie Basil

EASY VICTORY

Honeythistle scored an easy victory in the fourth. Breaking from the inside position, the mare found clear running to the first turn and opened up a margin of two length which the others could never lessen, although Genevieve M. charged strongly in the stretch. Gebo, after a valliant attempt to catch the pace-maker, was third.

Going a mile and seventy yards, Poor Pan cut out all his own pace in the feature fifth and scored by two lengths over Bill Bane, a 9 to 1 shot. Ella Madeline, which started at 43 to 2, was third. In this race Watchgirl, an even favorite with the winner, was last.

Tiny Captive, a western-bred gelding by Noctifer-Sassinette, sprung the big surprise of the day when he captured the sixth, leading from wire to wire, and paid $32.05 straight. The two highly-played favorites, Stanstill and Margery Daw, finished third and fourth respectively, while Herb Fullerton's Jungle Shawl took the place.

Lakeland, the first betting choice, won the seventh, but was extended in the stretch to hold off the fast-closing Highway, Voltmeter, the local horse, was third.

The daily double, Umpire to Maryland, returned $59.85, and the one-two bets in the fifth and seventh races respectively paid $33.15 and $21.15.

Solomon was the only jockey who scored a double win, having a leg on Poor Pan and Tiny Captive.

English Cricket Season Is Ended

London, Sept. 18.—The long English cricket season came to an end to-day when the Rest of England defeated the champion county, Lancashire, by eight wickets at the end of a four-day struggle at the Oval.

hands, as they fell into a clinch. A left jab and a left hook shot McLarnin's head back, and Ross drove him into the ropes with a right to the chin. Jimmy boxed his way out of there as the gong sounded, but the round went automatically to Ross as Referee Donovan signalled the judges to that effect on the basis of the earlier low blow.

ROUND SIX

Carefully McLarnin popped his long left a half a dozen times into Ross's head seeking an opening for his powerful right but Ross stepped inside it and banged two lefts and two rights on McLarnin's head as they went into a clinch. As they came out Ross swung another pair to the chin but McLarnin's right thudded home on the champion's chin with a resounding crash. Ross stepped back, apparently dazed, but before McLarnin could take advantage the champion had his head down and came pounding with both fists in close quarters. As they pulled apart McLarnin landed two more rights to the head then shifted a drumfire of rights and lefts to the body. Another right to the head almost floored Ross, but again the champion pulled himself together, bored into a clinch and was slugging manfully with both hands to the body as the gong sounded.

ROUND SEVEN

Again McLarnin stalked the champion, pawing at his head with lefts, seeking a right-hand shot. Jimmy drilled one right to the body, but missed a smash to the head as Barney fended himself off with a right to the head. Barney tried to weave under McLarnin's left hand, but a right to the head hurt him, and he flung himself on the challenger again. Two right smashes thudded on McLarnin's head and he pulled up short, shaking his head as he went back to his long-range left-hand boxing. McLarnin dropped two lefts to the body that the crowd booed as low, but the referee paid no attention. Jimmy ripped into the champion, smashing Barney's head with a half dozen crunching lefts, followed by a left hook to the chin, but Barney refused to go down. Instead, he roared into the Canadian challenger, almost knocked him through the ropes with a right full on the chin and was flailing his head with both hands as the gong rang.

ROUND EIGHT

ROUND NINE

McLarnin stabbed cautiously with his left, and Ross nailed him full on the chin with a right smash that buckled the challenger's knees. Frantically, Ross straightened him up with a right uppercut, but Jimmy held on. Ross stabbed McLarnin's head back with two lefts then ripped two rights into the Canadian's swelling cheek. Jimmy threw his normally crushing right into Ross's head again, but the amazing little champion merely shook his head, ploughed back in and banged on McLarnin's body with both hands. They swapped left hooks and right crosses in mid-ring in a furious exchange, and it was McLarnin, the deadly puncher, who backed away first, then covered and held. Ross was tearing at the Canadian's bobbing head with both hands as the gong rang.

ROUND TEN

ROUND ELEVEN

Both were cautious, but McLarnin sought to get past the champion's guard with a long left as Barney danced away from him. They slipped into a clinch and McLarnin drove the champion before him with left hooks to the body and rights to the back of the head. Barney opened up desperately as they punched along the ropes, flinging two left hooks, then straight successive rights into McLarnin's head. Blood started seepin immediately from the Canadian's mouth, and Ross, cold and deadly, smashed a right to the head that brought an added trickle from McLarnin's nose. Woefully tired but still punching, Ross banged into close quarters with both hands thumping on the Canadian's body before he held and rested a moment as they came away. Ross drove two rights into McLarnin's head, and the Canadian's left eye was almost closed as the bell sounded.

ROUND TWELVE

They slid immediately into a clinch and held each other as though they needed rest desperately. Ross thumped one right into McLarnin's left eye, and it promptly closed entirely. Slipping now to the right, working to McLarnin's bad side, Ross smashed four straight rights into the Canadian's jaw. Jimmy's knees wobbled as Ross smashed both hands into his body and flung another smacking right on the damaged cheekbone. Desperately, McLarnin tried to keep the champion off with long left jabs and left hooks to the body, but he couldn't see from that side, and Ross took full advantage. Barney ripped a left to the head, and right to the body, then beat a drumfire on McLarnin's ribs with both hands. Ross, at close quarters, banged both hands to the challenger's body as the bell sounded.

ROUND THIRTEEN

McLarnin tried to keep the champion away with left jabs, but Ross slipped inside and beat a tattoo of short left hooks on the Canadian's head. As they pulled away, Ross flung a beautiful right into McLarnin's swollen face and the Canadian was in desperate straits. His left eye was completely closed and the swelling protruded considerably. Ross put down his head and ploughed into close quarters, and McLarnin met him coming in with both hands. A short right smashed on Ross's left eye, all but closing that, and McLarnin's left hook opened a cut in Ross's right eyebrow. Taking on new life, McLarnin thundered a volley of lefts and rights to the champion's chin and Barney faltered. He fell into a clinch as the bell rang, and he started for his corner with both eyes closed.

ROUND FOURTEEN

McLarnin tore in with fresh strength, popping Ross's head with long lefts, despite the fact that his own left eye was completely closed. Both scarcely able to see, they missed a half dozen full swings in mid-ring, until Ross smashed a hard left hook to the body. McLarnin came right back with a left hook to the pit of the stomach and Barney's face twitched with pain. The champion held a moment, then put his head down with the challenger's, and smashed it out in close quarters. Barney got the upper hand and he drilled McLarnin's head with lefts and rights, as the Canadian backed across the ring. Ross drove a long right to the head, then banged both hands to the body as McLarnin sought to hold and tie up the champion. McLarnin seemed to be fast weakening and Ross drove him to the ropes, and Jimmy was holding as the bell sounded.

ROUND FIFTEEN

McLarnin stabbed Ross's head with a long left again as Barney tore after him for the crucial round. Barney smashed two rights to the head, and almost drove McLarnin from his feet with another left and right to the chin. McLarnin slipped, mostly from weariness, and nearly fell as Ross, fighting like a madman, pounded him into the ropes. McLarnin forced his way clear and they stood with Ross's back to the ropes, slugging madly, barely able to stand. It was a regular alley brawl, but the crowd cheered frantically as they locked heads and pounded frantically at each other's head and body. Ross drove the challenger's head back with a left hook and right cross, but a right exploded suddenly on Ross's chin. It merely inflamed him and he was punching wildly as the final bell rang.

BAER "WINS" MAT BATTLE

Heavyweight Boxing Champion Has Great Time at Portland Wrestling Show

Portland, Ore., Sept. 18.—Max Baer, the Livermore battler, was laughing to-day. He had lots of fun yesterday evening, but "Bulldog" Jackson, a bad boy from Grand Avenue, Portland, didn't.

It all happened at one of those wrestling shows.

First, Pascual Castillo, Spain, downed Jackson, his opponent in the main tussle of the evening, for the first fall, while Maxie, acting as referee, smiled benignly.

Then Jackson got the second fall and felt better.

In the third fall, the Grand Avenue boy made his mistake. He tapped the referee on the back of the neck. Maxie didn't like it. He said so with two lefts to the jaw. Jackson bounced off the mat.

Then Maxie went over to talk to his public through a radio microphone. Jackson tried to take the timekeeper's hammer away from him, with the announced intention of going after Baer. The timekeeper threw it away.

Finally Jackson stood in the centre of the ring and challenged the world champion heavyweight boxer to battle, any style. Maxie excused himself from his public, came back in the ring, picked Jackson up, lifted him at arms length above his head and went into his own type of airplane spin.

When Jackson bounced on the mat again, Maxie stuck a knee on his chest, reached around and patted himself on the back, then went home.

Some time during the melee, Castillo, the forgotten man, found an opportunity to pin Jackson for the deciding fall of the match.

TOUR ELEVEN IS SELECTED

England Will Send Strong Cricket Side to West Indies This Winter

London, Sept. 18.—A strong cricket aggregation, including many of the men who battled for England against Australia, was selected by the M.C.C. yesterday for the tour of the West Indies this winter. The team sails December 15 and returns to England April 1.

R. E. S. Wyatt, Warwickshire, who captained England this summer, is captain of the team.

Other test players on the team are C. F. Walters, Worcestershire, the great batsman; Kenneth Farnes, Essex, fast bowler; Wally Hammond, Gloucester, and Patsy Hendren, Middlesex, redoubtable bats; Leslie Ames, Kent, England's best stumper; Maurice Leyland, fine Yorkshire batsman.

Ada Mackenzie Is Tourney Medalist

Defending Champion in Canadian Women's Open Golf Championship Cards 81 Over Tough Toronto Course; Mrs. Vera Ford, Vancouver, Qualifies

Toronto, Sept. 18. — Out of one of the smallest fields in the history of the event, twenty-four homebreds, six stars of the British International Curtis Cup team, and two United States challengers, fought successfully yesterday against the hazards of the Toronto Country Club course and frowning elements to qualify for the Canadian open golf championship.

A dull, cold day played havoc with the finesse of most of the starting field of sixty-four, and numb hands, combined with heavy fairways and greens, sent many hopes crashing under an avalanche of wasted strokes. Such was the toll, that two competitors with green scores of 97 won their way into the championship flight, an unusually high qualifying mark for the ranking tournament.

MISS MACKENZIE LEADS

Miss Ada Mackenzie, Toronto's defending champion, gave warning that she is again at the peak of her form by winning the qualifying medal with an eighteen-hole score of 81. Her brilliant performance was matched by Diana Fishwick, member of the British Curtis Cup team and former holder of the British open title. The Canadian, however, toured the last nine holes in par 39 against Miss Fishwick's 42 to gain the decision.

Three westerners, Mrs. Vera Ford, Vancouver; Mrs. R. H. Horne, Edmonton, and Mrs. R. K. Beairsto, Winnipeg, remained in the title chase, the Vancouver ace leading the way with consistent iron play to post an 87.

Charging at the heels of the leaders were Miss Margery Kirkham, Montreal, and Miss Molly Gourlay, Great Britain, who tied with 83's.

The showing of the British internationalists was the highlight of the day's play. Diana Plumpton, Mrs. J. B. Walker, Doris Chambers and Mrs. George Coats all surviving the test, although the latter had a close call with 95.

Mrs. John Arends, Detroit, who posted a 92, and Mrs. H. B. Harbaugh, Willoughby, Ohio, with a 93, were the successful United States pair.

Britain contributed another challenger in Mrs. Alec Gold, whose 85 gave her a tie with Mrs. A. B. Darling, Montreal.

Two other stellar players from Montreal joined the charmed circle, Mrs. Joseph Dagenais overcoming a temporary lapse midway through her round to card an 88, and five strokes behind her was Mrs. H. W. Soper.

Outside Weakness Pares Wheat Prices

Winnipeg, Sept. 18.—Weakness in outside markets and general drying up of support undermined the price structure on the Winnipeg grain exchange to-day. Closing figures were off ½-⅜ cent.

October option closed at 82½, December at 83¼ and May at 87⅝ cents.

Prices showed an inclination to ease in the closing stages. Hedging against Monday's 1,750,000 bushel deliveries constituted most of the pressure. Foreign sales were estimated at 250,000 bushels.

Trading for the most part was extremely dull and uninteresting. Chicago turned easier in the late trade. Liverpool closed ¾-½d lower and Buenos Aires at noon was off 1¾ cents.

Cash grains spreads improved ⅝-¼ cent, but only odd lots changed hands. Coarse grains were easier with wheat, flax plunging six cents at one time.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Dearth of any aggressive buying support did much to make wheat values sag to-day in the last half of the Chicago board of trade session.

Likelihood of some increase of domestic winter wheat acreage for the 1935 crop acted as a weight on the market. Special notice was taken of reports good rains have fallen of late in Kansas, and have improved soil conditions.

lila and by the Fascist Youths of Combat.

The youth training is divided into two divisions: First, eight to eighteen; second, eighteen to twenty-one.

FORM "ARMED NATION"

The Council instituted a liaison body between the armed forces and all organizations which will cooperate in "the formation of an armed nation," and will place an army corps general at the body's head.

Premier Mussolini presided over the Council, which announced:

"The purpose of the first stage of compulsory pre-military training is to give boys a passion for military life through frequent contacts with the armed forces whose warlike glories and traditions will be re-evoked."

The purpose of the second stage of pre-military training, it was announced, is "to perfect the spiritual, physical and military training of a young man so as to form a soldier, physically and technically prepared. . . ."

SOLDIER AT EIGHTEEN

At the age of eighteen an Italian, the Council decreed, is to be regarded as a soldier. From that age he is obliged to bear arms.

Until the age of twenty-one, he still is under the jurisdiction of the Fascist organization, but at twenty-one he comes under the jurisdiction of the army.

The new liaison organization is made a direct dependency of Premier Mussolini.

Post-military training, said the Council, is "to keep alive in the reservists the military spirit and the devotion to the regiment, and to keep men of the specialized division instructed in the use of new materials and tactics."

In addition to the foregoing, the Council decided on the institution of courses in military culture in all high schools and colleges.

BAR SILVER

New York, Sept. 18.—Bar silver, quiet and unchanged at 49⅝.

Associated Press

New York, Sept. 18.—The stock market displayed a somewhat better tone to-day, although the trading volume dwindled appreciably on the moderate recovery movement. The stemming of selling in leading issues was attributed largely to technical factors.

The close was steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

There appeared to be little change in speculative sentiment. Most market commentators were unable to find any stimulus for a substantial advance in equity prices. Pressure on bonds relaxed, but the list was still spotty. U.S. Government securities were a bit more resistant. Grains were irregularly lower and cotton did little.

Paramount certificates were among the most actively traded for an advance of about half a point. Loew's and Warner Bros. also firmed. Reorganization plans for the Paramount Company were understood to have been virtually completed. McLellan Stores was another lively stock at a gain of a point. U.S. Steel preferred got up two, but later pared this advance. Case, American Commercial Alcohol and Union Pacific moved up a point or so each. United Aircraft and American Woolen preferred, however, drifted to new lows for the year.

NO SILVER STATEMENT

Minister of Finance Will Give No Answer on Nationalization in Canada

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes yesterday declined to say definitely whether Canada would follow the lead of the United States and nationalize silver. An assurance was sought by two Montreal Silver Exchange officials, but the Finance Minister said he could not be expected to make any definite statement on a government policy of such importance.

Silver exchanges in the United States were put out of business when Washington fixed a price and nationalized the metal as a monetary base. The Montreal Silver Exchange has been planned as the continent's centre of trading and a number of seats already have been allotted.

President D. S. McMaster and Ross Brown, assistant secretary of the Montreal exchange, yesterday sought the Finance Minister's assurance that no restrictive laws would be passed in this country if the exchange started. Mr. Rhodes said he could make no guarantees—that a government's financial policy could not be announced in advance.

BOND ISSUES PUSH HIGHER

Associated Press

New York, Sept. 18.—Aided by a moderate rally in U.S. Governments, the bond market pushed higher in the late trading.

Gains of around a point carried American Smelting 5s up to 103, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s to 50¾, Erie 5s to 60⅝, Missouri Pacific 5s 1977 to 21¼, Pacific Gas 5s to 79.

The federal list overcame early irregularity and late quotations showed gains ranging from 1-32 to 6-32 point. Federal farm mortgage 3¼s and treasury 3¾s were exceptions, the former selling off 8-32 to 98 and the latter 6-32 to 103.6.

Argentine and Brazilian issues led a fairly broad upward movement in the foreign department.

UNITED EMPIRE TO HAVE MILL

Canadian Press

Stewart, B.C., Sept. 18.—A mill will be built on the United Empire mine property as soon as the required tonnage is developed, Ben Smith, New York mining promoter, declared here on his return from a visit to the mine in company with Gen. V. W. Odlum of Vancouver and two mining engineers.

"I am well satisfied with what I have seen on United Empire," Mr. Smith said.

The party left here to-day by airplane for Bridge River, whence they will return to Vancouver.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—Is there any cure for an argumentative disposition? My husband is good and kind, but he has the arguing complex and contradicts everything everyone says.

He is always on the other side of every question, no matter what it is, or if he ever thought of it before or not. I find that the only way to live in peace with him is to yes-yes him, and the only way to get the things I want is to pretend that I wouldn't have them at any price. If I want to go to a place, I have to affect to want to stay at home. That makes him insist upon my going. If I get an expensive new hat, I have to register dissatisfaction and threaten to send it back to the shop. Whereupon he tells me how becoming it is and makes me keep it. This saves a lot of useless arguments and quarreling, but it means sacrificing my personality and more or less living a life of lies. Am I doing right or wrong in thus playing up to my husband? FUZZLED.

Answer—I think that in your case the end justifies the means, and that it is better for you to pretend to agree with your husband than it would be to be in a perpetual wrangle with him. "Peace at any price" should be the motto hung above the fireplace in every home.

And certainly there can't be any peace in a household in which the husband and wife are continually arguing over everything from politics to pie and where no one dares to introduce a new topic of conversation for fear of starting something. I have in mind now such a home at which I occasionally visit and from which I always return feeling as if I had been through the Battle of the Marne.

Anything will start a fight because both the husband and the wife are disputatious by nature and dearly love an argument. Let one say even so simple a thing as it is seasonable weather for this time of the year and the other flatly contradicts the statement and says that nobody but a moron would make such an idiotic assertion when the meteorological statistics show that the temperature is above normal and the precipitation lower than usual, etc. And the scrimmage is on. Voices get high and shrill and criminations and recriminations fly back and forth until murder is in the air and the children run frightened and weeping from the room.

And all about nothing. And that is what most arguments are about, nothing. Unless you are a witness in a homicide case what difference does it make whether you saw the butcher cross the street at 4.30 or 4.45? What does it matter whether you had mince pie or ice cream for dinner last Christmas? Yet things as trivial as these furnish the argument that cause husbands and wives temporarily to hate each other and turn many a quiet evening into sound and fury.

And why should any one set himself or herself up as an authority on every subject and try to force those with whom they live to accept their opinions? Why not let every one enjoy their own taste in cooking and literature and religion in peace without arguing with them about it?

Of course, when men or women are arguers it is because they are possessed of colossal vanity and consider that the world is waiting with bated breath for their opinions. It is their way of turning the spotlight on themselves and they think that it shows great originality and superior intelligence to disagree with everybody on every topic.

There is no arguing with the arguers, no convincing them of how unfair and unjust and tiresome they are. To dispute what they say merely brings on more words and gives them a fresh start. The only possible way to shut them up is a surface agreement that cuts the ground out for under their feet. You can't get into an acrimonious dispute over whether Bacon wrote Shakespeare or the New Deal or the Babe's batting score with one who merely smiles and says: "Really. How marvelous that you understand it all!"

You have been wise enough to perceive this and this enables you to live in peace and harmony with an arguer, and if it calls for a few white lies, believe me they are the sort on which the Recording Angel drops a tear and blots them out. But, Lord, how I pity a woman who has a husband with the arguing habit. DOROTHY DIX.

* * * * * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—Modern is the word to-day. If you aren't modern you had better be dead. What fellow will take a girl out the second time if she doesn't neck the first? What girl will go out with a fellow the second time if he doesn't kiss her the first? If a girl doesn't drink and smoke, she is too slow and she is never asked again. How many don't drink and smoke? The boys to-day pick out the dyed blondes with the tightest-fitting clothes and that come-on look. On the other hand, the girls pick out the best-dressed boy with a nifty roadster who spends money like water. I remember when girls didn't have dates until they were eighteen, but to-day Mary is too slow if she doesn't go out at fourteen, and if John doesn't get a car on his fifteenth birthday he is a back number. To-day father either has to be a millionaire or work himself to death so that daughter and son may keep up with the Joneses. If Mother doesn't run to the beauty parlor for hair sets and facials and smoke cigarettes and do the latest dance step, she is just old-fashioned, and the younger set will soon let her know it. You must be modern. What do you think? LAREDE.

Answer—Every generation has had its modern youngsters whose ways have shocked its elders and whom the old-timers have prophesied were going to the dogs. We are no more horrified at what our children are doing than our parents were shocked at our carryings-on.

Not long ago I came across an old Godey magazine that was published in the fifties. Its illustrations depicting ladies in large hooped skirts and gentlemen in tight striped trousers and high hats and stocks were archaic enough. So were its namby-pamby stories that were the literary pabulum upon which women fed in those days, but there was one article that might have been written yesterday.

It was about the young people of the day. What we call the modern generation, and it descanted at length upon its follies, its recklessness, its wild orgies. It told how bold the girls had got to be, though none of them had ever even heard of a cocktail and would have swooned at the sight of a cigarette. It depicted the young men as worthless rakes with no serious purposes in life. It deplored the manners of the youth of to-day and the lack of respect for their leaders, and it compared them invidiously with the men and women of the past and asked what would happen to the country when it fell into the hands of these worthless young creatures.

Well, that modern set were our grandfathers and our grandmothers and they gave a pretty good account of themselves. They didn't wreck civilization. They carried it to new heights. And that gives us reason to believe that the girls and boys of to-day are going to settle down into being the sort of citizens that their ancestors were.

And, anyway, they are not half so bad as they are painted. Of course, some of them drink too much, but drinking isn't a modern vice, it is as old as creation, and there are plenty of youngsters who never touch liquor and plenty of girls who do not pet yet who still have dates, and plenty of boys who pick out nice girls instead of wild women for wives.

I agree with you that it is a pity for girls to have dates, but don't forget that that isn't a modern custom, it is old-fashioned. It used to be common for girls to marry at fourteen and fifteen and I well remember one old lady who told me that she was regarded as quite an old maid and her family were getting anxious about her because she didn't marry until she was seventeen.

Don't despair of the modern generation. They will be held up as models to the next generation. DOROTHY DIX.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1934

This is a decidedly adverse day, according to astrology. The stars appear to incline men toward changing policies. Uncertainty will mark the general mood.

Differences of opinion will be strong in families as well as in organizations. Many quarrels and misunderstandings are indicated.

Inclination to talk too much will be apparent in all classes. It is foretold that even politicians will break confidences and defeat their own aims.

Clashes at arms, fires and accidents of many sorts are foreseen.

Men and women who bear responsibility may find unusual problems besetting them. Chaotic conditions may extend to small as well as large organizations.

Sudden deaths of two men prominent in public affairs are presaged, one a leading British statesman and one a man conspicuous in public affairs in the United States.

Financial improvement is to be apparent in western states and the Pacific Coast may show a decided activity in trade and commerce.

Saturn, under which the NRA was projected, is retrograding—a significant indication. Jupiter is in a place that should encourage conservative policies and strengthen banking interests.

More taxes are foreshadowed and it is probable that new needs of money for government uses will present sudden perplexities.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of unsettling experiences, including sudden journeys. Good friends will be numerous.

Children born on this day probably will be self-reliant and able to guide their own lives. Subjects of this sign usually like what is best in all things. They have many interests.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include William B. Astor, merchant and capitalist, 1792, and William Robertson, Scottish historian, 1721.

Bigelow, Miss Z. Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Chadwick, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Crofton of Salt Spring Island, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Coe, Mrs. Phyllis Reaich and Howard Reaich.

The H. F. Alexander reached Seattle yesterday morning from California ports with 368 passengers, among them being H. B. Brittan, passenger traffic manager of the Pacific Steamship Lines; Oscar Townsend, vice-president, and B. R. Harris, general freight agent of the Chicago Great Western Railway Company; C. E. Perkins, vice-president of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company, and Mrs. Perkins and a party of executives of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, en route to New York and consisting of Paul S. It was announced this morning by William M. Allan, local agent for the Pacific Steamship Lines, that the H. F. She will then go to San Francisco to tie up for the winter months.

SHIPPING MAN WAS CANADIAN

Late Capt. C. Armstrong, Head of Furness-Bermuda Line, Born in Saint John

New York, Sept. 18.—A special dispatch to The New York Times from New Rochelle says that Capt. Charles Millar Armstrong, for several years general passenger traffic manager of the Furness Bermuda Line, died in the New Rochelle Hospital from a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been in the hospital only two days for treatment when he suffered a stroke. He was forty-two years of age.

Capt. Armstrong, who was in service for forty-two months during the World War in France, was captain of the Eighty-seventh Battalion, Canadian Grenadier Guards. He was born in St. John's, N.B., and had been in the United States since 1919. He had been a resident of New Rochelle for six years and owned an extensive country place on Davenport Neck.

He was a son of Edward John Armstrong of St. John, N.B., now a resident of Ottawa. His mother was the late Helen Millar of St. John, N.B. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Geraldine (Arlington) Armstrong of New Rochelle, and three sisters and a brother, who live in Ottawa.

BORN IN CANADA

Capt. Armstrong was educated in St. John, N.B., and after leaving school went to work first for the Canadian Pacific Company in Montreal. Later he was with the Allen Line in that city until 1915, when he joined the Grenadier Guards, who went to France as members of a unit of the Eleventh Brigade.

He was one of three surviving members of his company at the end of the war.

On September 18, 1918, Capt. Armstrong was decorated on the field at Queart with the military cross for conspicuous gallantry under heavy shell fire and bombing. He was in command of the brigade transport train when the horses were killed. In the citation it is stated that "it was due to his cool judgment and devotion to duty under heavy bombing that the supply train was able to get up to the line."

IN NEW YORK

He was very popular with his brother officers and received the nickname of Mokie, which stuck to him when he re-entered the shipping business with the Canadian Pacific in this city and later joined the Furness Withy Company and built up the heavy Bermuda passenger business with the Monarch of Bermuda and the Queen of Bermuda.

His friends in the shipping business in this city said it was the continuous heavy strain of getting these two ships in and out every week with 650 to 700 passengers each that caused Capt. Armstrong to break down last Friday and have to be taken to the hospital.

BLUENOSE IS BOUND HOME

Capt. Angus Walters Says He Was Badly Treated During Toronto Exhibition

Montreal, Sept. 18.—It has not been plain sailing at all for the famed schooner Bluenose since she left her home port of Lunenburg, N.S., and her ruddy-cheeked skipper, Angus Walters, rues the day he accepted the invitation to exhibit the pride of Nova Scotia's fishing fleet at the Chicago Century of Progress Exhibition and the Toronto Exhibition.

Bluenose slipped into harbor over the week-end and is getting ready to clear to-morrow for the voyage home.

Capt. Walters "blanketed" the Queen City under a series of pungent remarks, vowing he would never take his ship back there "unless God blows her in that direction."

Not so long ago the famous Bluenose was the centre of attraction wherever she went. Now, said her captain, she hardly rates at all. The fault? The skipper says that in Toronto the schooner was not even rated as a Canadian ship. "She was a Bolshevik vessel, so far as they were concerned," he observed.

Capt. Walters said he would have much preferred to stay in Chicago. "But," he sighed, "they invited me to Toronto and now see what has happened." Lusty words accompanied each reference to Toronto and there were recurrent bangs on the table as the skipper emphasized with a horny fist, "I wouldn't go back to Toronto for love nor money."

As though trouble over towing fees was not enough, Capt. Walters recalled the intervention of the Lord's Day Alliance which, he stated, put the crimps on further support from the citizenry.

Orient Liner Is Due To-morrow

Delayed crossing the Pacific from the Orient, it will be 11 o'clock tomorrow evening before the American Mail liner President Jefferson reaches the Rithet piers, according to word received in Victoria this morning by W. M. Allen, local agent, from the commander of the ship.

For Victoria the President Jefferson is bringing 400 tons of general freight, a large consignment of mail and several passengers.

On her way to Victoria from Rotterdam and London, the Holland-America motorship Drechtdyk is expected at Victoria Thursday morning. According to word received here today by A. P. Moffatt, local agent, the Drechtdyk left San Francisco yesterday afternoon, direct for this port.

She is bringing 270 tons of general cargo for Victoria and several passengers. Before proceeding to Vancouver she will load some frozen fish and cooperage stock for the London market. Capt. J. P. Webster is in command.

D. C. Coleman To Be Honored

Winnipeg, Sept. 18.—Officers of western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, representing practically every department from the Pacific Coast to Fort William, will gather in Winnipeg on Tuesday, September 25, to attend a complimentary dinner to D. C. Coleman, recently appointed senior vice-president of the railway system. Mr. Coleman will leave shortly after that date to assume his new duties in Montreal.

CANAL MOVEMENTS

Washington, Sept. 18.—The Secretary of War announced recently that 2,401 ocean vessels passed through the Panama Canal in August, paying $1,906,821 in tolls. In August last year, 414 ocean vessels used the canal and paid $1,829,754 in tolls.

The number of ocean vessels passing through the Panama Canal in August this year was a reduction of eighteen compared with July, 1934.

London Power Expert Here on Way to Orient Sees Better Conditions in Britain

"When the people of a country demand more electrical power it is indicative of an increased prosperity," stated J. H. Penington of London this morning in telling of improved business conditions in Great Britain. Mr. Pennington is connected with the International Combustion of Great Britain Limited, and is en route to the Orient. He will sail on Saturday on the Ss. Empress of Canada.

Mr. Penington's company recently installed the superpower electrical station at Birmingham. It cost in the neighborhood of $12,500,000 and there are plans for an additional station there to cost $2,500,000. The City of Leeds will enlarge its power plant to the extent of $10,000,000, Mr. Penington stated, Nottingham to the same amount and Leicester to $15,000,000.

IN MIDLANDS

"All these orders have been placed in the Midland areas," Mr. Penington said, "and this is surely a good sign, for it has been these areas that were so badly hit by the depression."

All the orders have been placed within the last three months, Mr. Penington stated, and work will be started shortly, giving employment to a large number of men and greatly modernizing the homes in the cities concerned.

Mr. Penington will spend some weeks in Japan, making arrangements for the manufacture in that country of British equipment for his company. He will explore the possibilities of export business in Japan and China and will make an inspection tour of his company's business contracts which were recently placed in Shanghai, Hongkong and Nanking.

Mr. Penington reached Montreal early this month aboard the Ss. Duchess of York and while in Canada addressed the Institute of Mining on recent electrical activities in Great Britain.

During his visit to Victoria he is the guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Temple, 553 Raynor Avenue.

Norfolk House Old Girls Are Active

The first annual meeting of the Norfolk House Old Girls' Association was held yesterday evening at the school boarding house with a good attendance, Mrs. Denniston being in the chair.

Satisfactory progress was noted for their year's work and a bridge party and dance has enabled them to purchase and place some useful equipment in the school gymnasium.

The following were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. K. R. F. Denniston; vice-president, Miss Kate Parker; secretary, Miss Prudence Yerburgh; treasurer, Miss P. Adamson.

It was decided to hold an evening bridge party on November 16 at "Gonzales," to raise further funds for new equipment for the gymnasium.

The arrangements made for tea at the annual school sports was greatly appreciated and added to the afternoon's enjoyment, and it was decided to make it an annual obligation of the Old Girls' Association.

Miss Atkins welcomed members for refreshments after the meeting adjourned.

La Follette Brothers, Supporting Roosevelt, Face Polls in Milwaukee

Associated Press

Milwaukee, Sept. 18.—The La Follette Progressive Party underwent its first test at the polls to-day, challenging the Democrats for the primary votes of Roosevelt supporters.

U.S. Senator Robert M. La Follette, unopposed for renomination on the new ticket, and his brother, Philip F. La Follette, candidate for Wisconsin gubernatorial nomination, took a firm stand for President Roosevelt and his policies.

Five candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination and three for the gubernatorial nomination likewise campaigned under New Deal standards.

The Republicans, however, in whose columns the La Follettes formerly stood, called for repudiation of "experimental theorists."

Mrs. George Miles Blakeney of Los Angeles, Cal., who has been spending the last few months visiting her former home and friends in Vancouver, is at present the guest of Mrs. F. I. Clarke, St. Charles Street, and is leaving on Wednesday for the south.

The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during three of the usual tidal periods.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To Stage Canoe Marathon Sunday

An eight-mile canoe marathon from Chemainus to Ladysmith is to be staged next Sunday under the auspices of Post No. 7 of the Native Sons of British Columbia. Bud Wagner, formerly of the Vancouver Canoe Club, is managing the event and advises that the race is being arranged for both men's doubles and mixed doubles. The canoes will start at the same time and trophies will be awarded to the first and second canoes in both classes.

Entries for the race have been promised from the Vancouver Canoe Club and it is hoped that entries for the event will be received from Victoria paddlers.

Further information can be secured from W. H. Davies, care of Empire Realty Company Limited, 1008 Broad Street.

The many Victoria friends of Mr. A. Dunbar Taylor will be interested to learn that he is making satisfactory recovery from the effects of the accident which, happening on the eve of his departure for England, has caused him to cancel his journey indefinitely. He is at present at the home of his son, in Burnaby, and expresses the hope of spending part of the winter in Victoria.
